Past Howard Johnson's and Ma's and the stoplights at Route 116, there are towers and a stadium in the distance. A pond is surrounded by a student union, a chapel, ubiquitous construction. What is this place called the University of Massachusetts? It is more than buildings and scenery—it is people, thousands of them. In the blurry crowd, there is an individual in the process of development. This is his story.

Through an identification with others of similar interests, he transmits the spirit. Whether it be as a member of his class executive council or of a fraternity or sorority, his contribution to his own character, to his fellows, and to the campus community as a whole is measured in terms of dedication.

Immersion in the college experience—as a student, as a participant, as a member of a group—perpetrates a potential to assume one's place of relevance in society. The caps and gowns symbolize a materialization of answers to the questions: Who am I? Where am I going? The individual has culminated in a directive sense—he has yet to prove his value.

Registration Day Times Two in '68

Registration 1968 can be remembered with less grief than ever before. The ultimate confusion and the irritation of eternal lines to reach the course rosters can be placed in the archives.

The new two-day policy by student number was characterized by a separation of function. The purpose of Day #1 was to allow formal registration: the bulging packets of course schedules and multi-colored cards were distributed and filled out. The innovation is called Day #2—Change of Courses. The student was given 24 hours to overcome the shocking schedule problems delivered by IBM and to contemplate solutions.

Organization was maintained by continued adherence to student numbers, add-drop cards were rationed and stamped with ID's at the entrance, and the overall absence of confusion meant fewer battle scars for the students.

New ID-punch system was used to ration add-drop cards.

Books, Books, Books— the Means to an Education

The Student Union Commonwealth Room was transformed from a make-shift snack bar to the student's bi-annual nightmare as the cartons were unloaded, the contents priced, the book lists posted, and the doors opened to admit hoards of onrushing students in eager anticipation of buying the tangible means to a not-so-tangible goal of knowledge. The lists appear lengthy, the piles of world intellect in individual bindings seemingly insurmountable.

The student chooses his tools, bewails the weakness of his biceps, and trods in bewilderment to the cash register. He leaves in a strangely ambivalent state of poverty and wealth.

Pass-Fail Program Encourages Students to Liberalize Course Selection

Pass - Fail

Statement of College of Arts and Sciences

General. The action which made the election of courses on a pass-fail basis possible is clear on some points and leaves others to the discretion of the instructor or of the major department. It is definite in this respect:

A course to be applied to the University Core requirements or to College of Arts and Sciences requirements may not be taken on the pass-fail basis.

Majors. The status of courses in a student's major is determined by the major department or committee. The general rule adopted by most departments for their majors is: No course in the minimal requirements for the major, whether within the department or outside the department, may be taken on the pass-fail basis.

Electives. The basic provisions for pass-fail gives the instructor of each course discretion concerning the acceptance of registration of this sort. In the case of multiple section courses, all sections will have the same policy.

An effort has been made to get advance statements from all instructors as to the possibility of pass-fail registration. In general, a course which a student is taking as an elective is open on a pass-fail basis.

The following courses are exceptions to this statement; they may NOT be taken on a pass-fail option.

Editorial

Any full-time student who has completed his sophomore year is eligible to use a pass-fail option in one course each semester. This option is open to eligible students in all courses except those needed by the student to satisfy core or distribution requirements of the University or of his school, courses in a student's major (unless otherwise ruled by his department), or any course in which an instructor refuses to admit students on a pass-fail basis.

A pass-fail student who does passing work in a course is given a grade of "P". A "P" in a course earns a student graduation credits, but the course is not counted in his quality point average calculations. A pass-fail student who does failing work in a course is given the grade of "F". Credits for a failed course are included in quality point calculations.

The student has ten days to decide whether to exercise the option and in what course he intends to place it. A pass-fail course cannot be converted to the regular grading basis after the ten-day period has passed.

The Pass-Fail program, instituted this year, encourages upper-level students to be usefully venturesome in the choice of their elective courses.

PASS-FAIL COURSE AUTHORIZATION

TO THE STUDENT:

Read the Pass-Fail regulations on reverse of card. During the first ten days of the semester you must decide whether to exercise the pass-fail option this semester and, if so, in which course. This card must be filled out, signed, and accepted by the appropriate instructor.

I understand the pass-fail regulations and realize that a pass-fail course cannot be used to satisfy core or distribution requirements and that the grade cannot later be converted to a regular grading basis.

School of Education to Revamp Curriculum

The School of Education faces an atmosphere of experimentation and change under the innovative direction of Dwight W. Allen, newly-appointed dean and former associate professor of education at Stanford University.

A greater emphasis will be placed on urban concerns in education caused by shifts in the population. Insertions and deletions in the present curriculum will be evaluated by a planning committee of faculty, graduate and undergraduate students.

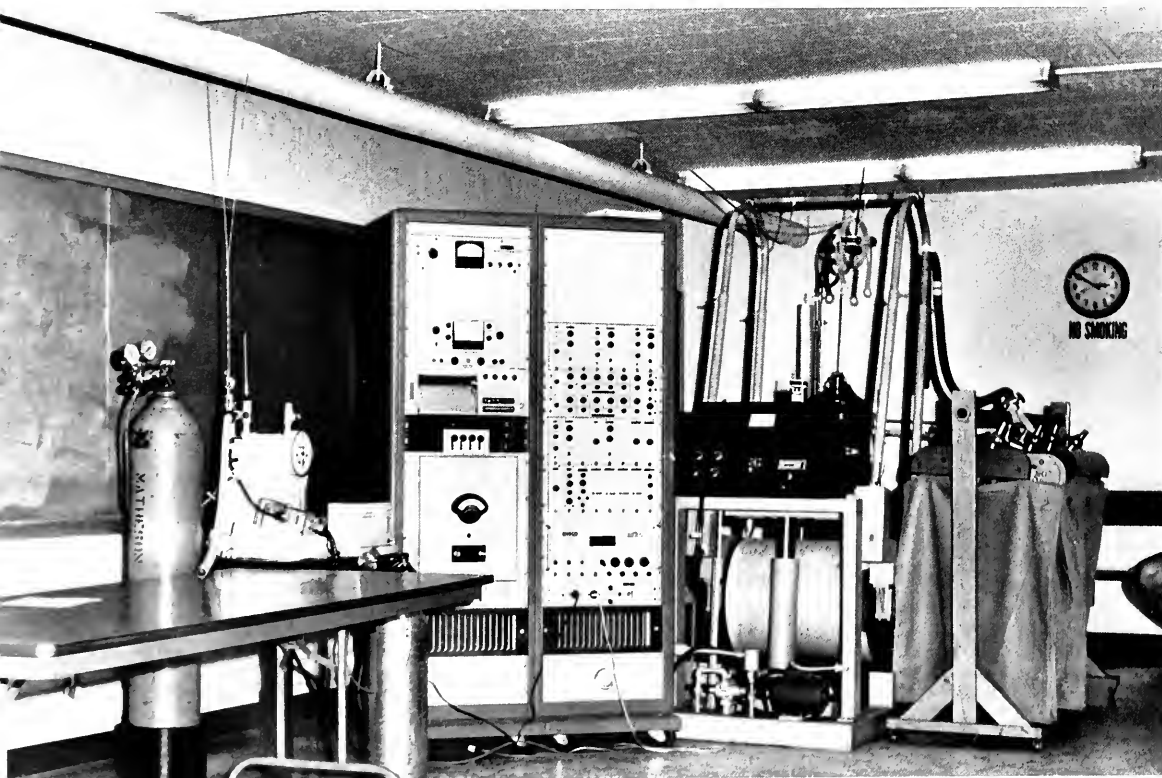

Study Published in Physiology of Movement

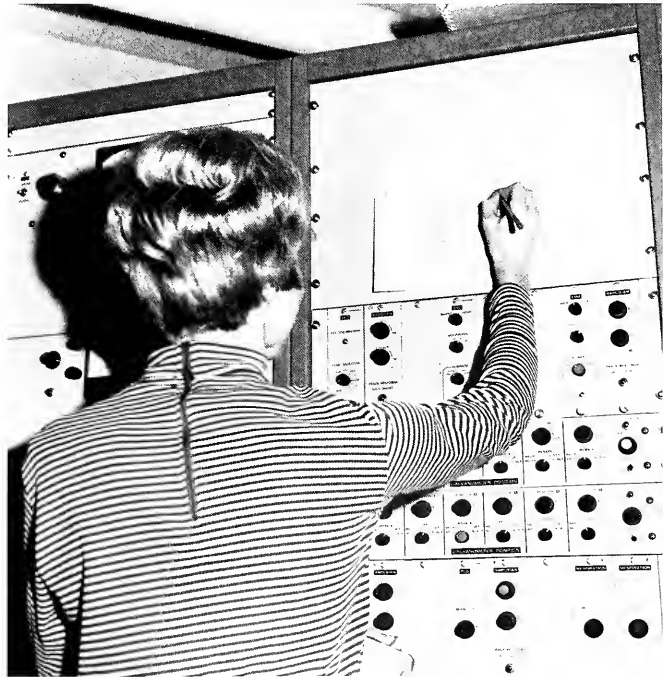

Current concepts relating to the physiology of movement is the subject of Dr. Benjamin Ricci's recent publication, Physiological Basis of Human Performance. Dr. Ricci is the director of the laboratory of applied physiology in the School of Physical Education, one of the most up-to-date physiology laboratories in the country and the site of much of his research.

The book is a study of the effect of physical exercise on the heart, lungs, and fluids.

Dr. Ricci's work with students combines lecture and laboratory presentation and study of the application of the basic physiological concepts of the program of physical education, lending more comprehensive practical understanding to the skills and techniques emphasized in the curriculum.

New Marketing Laboratory Houses First Experiment

The role of marketing management in our economy is becoming increasingly important. The Marketing Department of the School of Business Administration offers a broad range of courses for those students interested in careers in advertising, sales, marketing administration, marketing research, and wholesale and retail enterprise.

The Department's objective is to contribute to the education and effectiveness of marketing practitioners. Dr. M. Venkatesan conducted a razor blade experiment this past semester in which students participated directly in the study of consumer behavior. The students were divided into two groups; one was asked to indicate blade brand choice, the other was asked to guess what brand had been pre-selected by a computer. This observation of consumer attitudes was the first experiment conducted in the new Marketing Research Laboratory, equipped with a one-way mirror, microphones, headsets, recorder, and two separate rooms to accommodate different groups simultaneously. As a result, students were given the opportunity to learn first-hand the intricacies of consumer behavior.

Department of Environmental Engineering Joins in Regional Fight Against Pollution

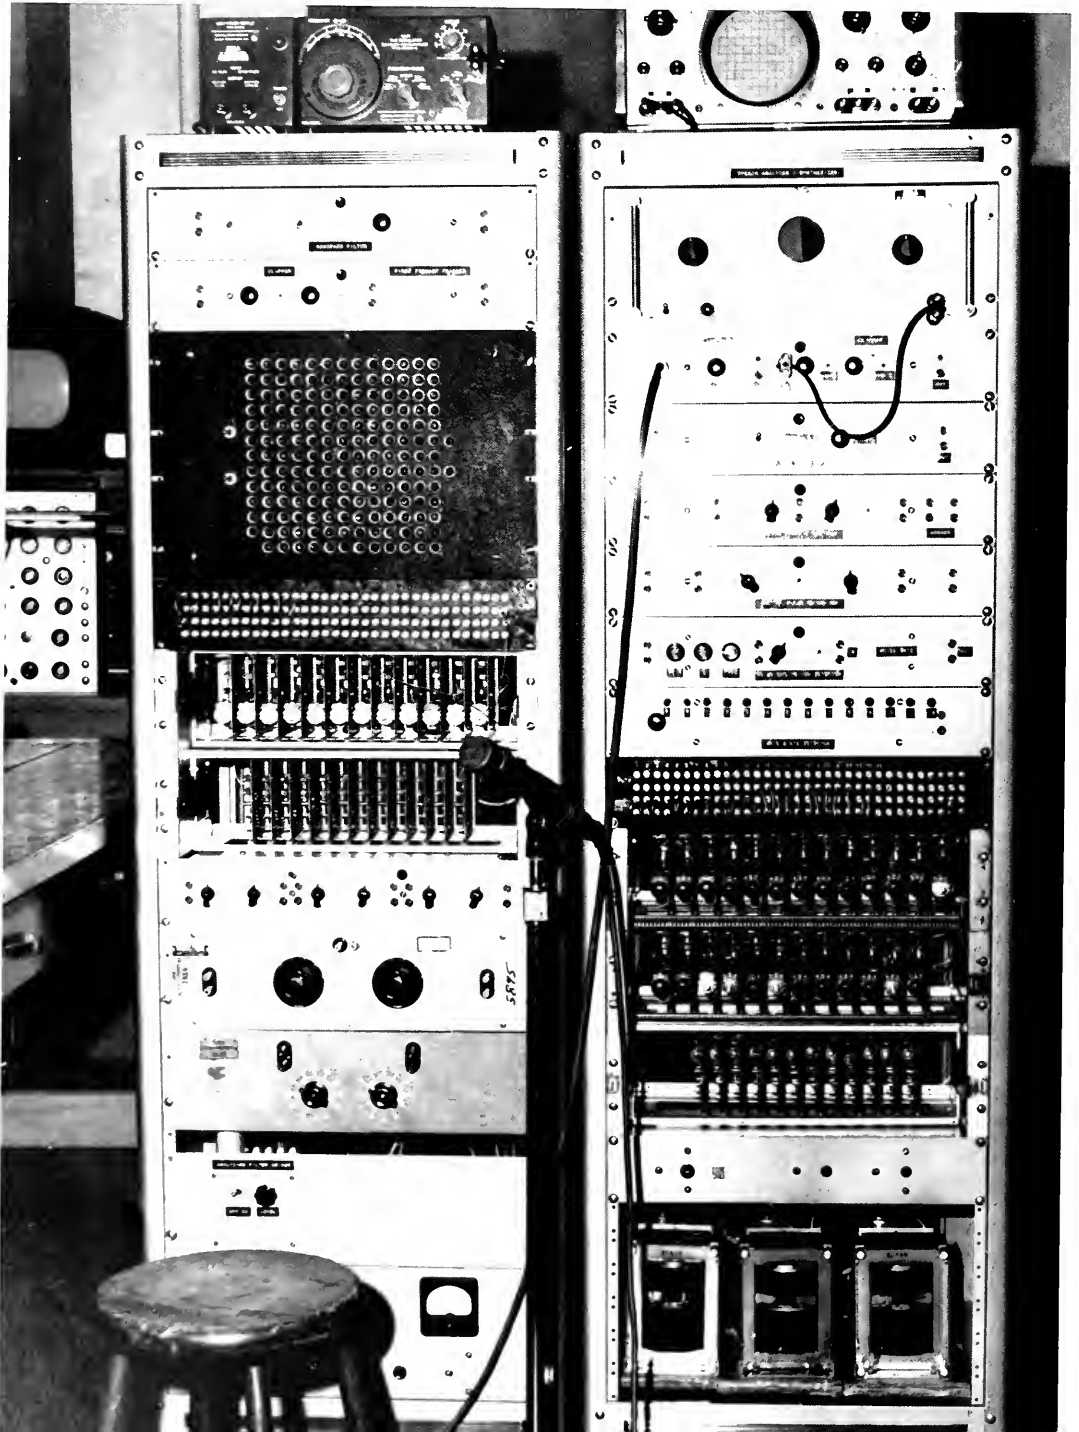

In response to the need in Massachusetts and the region for increased emphasis on water supply and water and air pollution control, as well as for new technologies in managing the urban environment, the University of Massachusetts has greatly expanded its training and research program in environmental engineering.

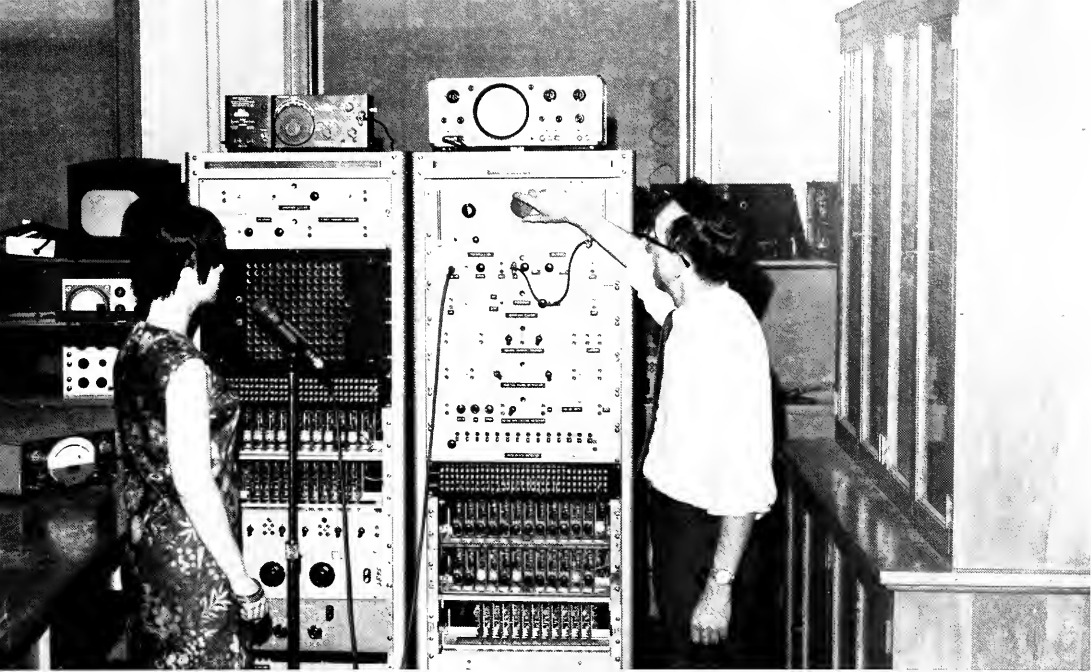

A basic objective of the program is training of civil engineers to become proficient in sanitary engineering areas of design and construction of public works.

The laboratory instruction and research area comprises more than 8,000 square feet, which is equipped with the most advanced instruments, such as atomic absorption, ultra violet, and infra red spectrophotometers, gas chromatograph, and respirometers.

Problems of the Deaf Researched in Electrical Engineering

The Speech Processing Laboratory of the Electrical Engineering Department, under the direction of Dr. Ian B. Thomas, is concerned with the problems of the deaf. Successful articulation of speech sounds requires constant monitoring by the speaker. In cases of severe deafness such monitoring is not possible through the normal auditory channels and can only be accomplished by presentation of appropriate speech information to the deaf speaker through either the visual or tactual senses.

A prosthetic device has been designed to provide an instant visual display of the significant features of speech sounds. The enunciation of any speech sound into the machine causes a characteristic pattern of lights to be illuminated on the machine's output panel. The machine provides an objective evaluation of the closeness of any sound to a desired sound and so is a valuable aid in speech therapy.

The machine is also useful as a learning aid in the pronunciation of foreign sounds. The language student is simply instructed to produce the output display which characterizes the desired foreign sound.

*Restaurant and Hotel Management
Students Aim to Serve Hungry Americans*

The curriculum in Restaurant and Hotel Management is offered by the Department of Food Science and Technology. The program provides technical and professional information for persons who plan a career in ownership, sales, or management in the hotel-motel, food service, or related fields.

Courses include food service and personnel management, laws of innkeeping, principles of restaurant and hotel sales, and food preparation and service. Specific training is balanced with a selection of courses in the arts and sciences which serve to broaden the students' interests in and appreciations of society.

A student in independent study combines ingredients for microwave oven project.

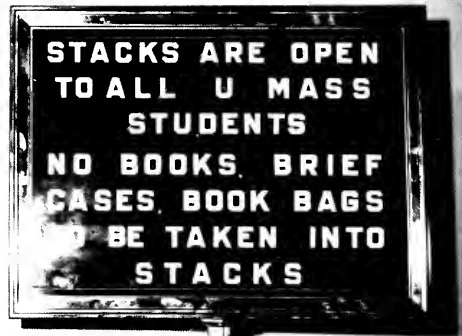

School of Home Economics Offers Independent Study

Academically qualified food and nutrition majors in the School of Home Economics can be selected to participate in a course of independent study called Special Problems in Foods. The student develops ideas on an experimental basis, compares contrived with conventional methods of food preparation, tests acceptability by means of objective chemical analysis and subjective reactions of a taste test panel, confers with faculty and advisers, and draws conclusions from the study.

In the course of study, the student familiarizes herself with experimental procedures and becomes acquainted with career demands.

Taste test panel judges food on palatability and appearance.

College of Arts and Sciences Highlighted by New Library Policy

"Stacks are open to all UMass students. No books, brief cases, book bags to be taken into stacks." The sign at the entrance to Goodell Library represents a decision for change prompted by slow service and crowded conditions at the circulation desk. Students have the advantages of expedient self service and direct contact with research materials on the shelves.

The new traffic system includes one entrance and one exit complete with a security guard to measure the integrity of the student and to check for illegal export of library materials.

The change symbolizes a step in academic freedom and enriches the learning experience of the student researcher.

Language Labs Emphasize Individual Achievement

The student in the language lab is able to take advantage of a self-set pace of learning. His tools are tapes, textbooks, and teachers. His methods are speaking, listening, and repeating. He is removed from his classmates. He participates freely in the surroundings of his soundproof booth. On occasion his teacher listens and corrects. He repeats, compares, and learns . . . individually.

Speech and Hearing Clinic Offers Therapeutic Services to Children of the Community

Children with communication disorders in the Amherst community are offered the therapeutic services of the Speech and Hearing Clinic, a part of the University Department of Speech. Undergraduate majors in speech pathology receive clinical experience in developing methods of treatment and applying them to the youngsters. Each student therapist works with one child, creating an atmosphere of familiarity and confidence based on an understanding of family background gained through pre-treatment interviews with parents.

Advantages are two-fold: the patient benefits from the emphasis on up-to-date methodology in the dynamic University setting, and the student is able to effectively correlate theory with practice in the learning process.

Technical Aspects of Communication Assist in the Study of Abnormalities

Students in Communications Science Lab record and interpret data in experiment measuring perspiration and pulse rates during oral reading exercise.

Audiology booth provides setting for the study of normal speech patterns.

Scholarship Fund Established in Memory of

Howard Lebow

The University of Massachusetts Department of Music has established a trust fund for scholarships to assist both graduate and undergraduate music students in memory of the late Howard M. Lebow, professor of piano and concert artist whose untimely death in an automobile accident in January cut short a brilliant musical career. The scholarships will be awarded to students, selected by a special music committee, who demonstrate musical potential according to the ideals and standards of excellence that Lebow set for himself and for his students.

Lebow was graduated from the Juilliard School of Music in 1957, received his master's degree in 1959, and was the winner of the school's highest pianistic honor, the Morris Loeb Memorial Prize. He studied at the State Academy of Music in Hamburg, Germany; the International Institute for New Music in Darmstadt, Germany; and the Mozarteum Summer Academy in Salzburg, Austria. He studied under Edward Steuermann, a pupil of composer Ferruccio Busoni, and became well-known for his performances of Busoni's works.

Lebow came to the University of Massachusetts in 1965 to assume his position as Assistant Professor of Piano.

Internationally acclaimed as a remarkable pianist by music critics, Lebow was widely recognized as having a faultless technique, a richly varied touch, and a distinctive feeling for style. "It is only Lebow," said the Darmstaedter Echo, "who puts every fiber of his body and soul into the keys and truly performs with the utmost clarity, transparentness and plasticity."

Dr. Philip Bezanson, head of the department said, "The music department feels this memorial fund is a most fitting way to perpetuate the memory of Howard Lebow. He was actively interested in trying to develop scholarships for the music department. Because of his genuine interest in talented students it is most fitting that talented students should continue to receive help in his name."

Zoology Provides First-Hand Learning

Zoology may revive painful memories of long lab hours, tedious dissections, and writer's cramp. But, to the students, there's more than just scalpels and lectures.

The field trip provides a different kind of learning in the form of first-hand experience unequalled in a laboratory dissecting session. The student surveys the environment, devises methods of trapping, and informally discusses his observations with his classmates. Although it may mean wading boots, mud, and discomfort, the practical impact of the student's participation in a lesson of this nature surpasses that of a whole week of lectures.

"Students are Human Beings First,

You have to come early to find a seat, the lecture hall is dark and you hear music playing in the background, a man begins to speak softly and directly about nature and life—the class is Botany 101 and the man? Ryan Drum.

A man who considers learnings one of the most "pleasurable things that happens", Drum stresses the primacy of the student as a person over the student as a student. He encourages learning rather than forcing it, and reminds his students that despite the pleasurable aspect of learning, ease of attainment is not automatic. To facilitate the mutual participation essential to learning, Drum has tried to "employ integrated mixed media as a means of vitalizing botanical material."

The personal excitement the man feels about his subject is generated to his students. They crowd around him after lecture, invite him to their dorms, and visit his office in a spirit of fascination. Drum stimulates thought—he is a permanent part of the intellectual prowess of his students.

New Course in General Chemistry

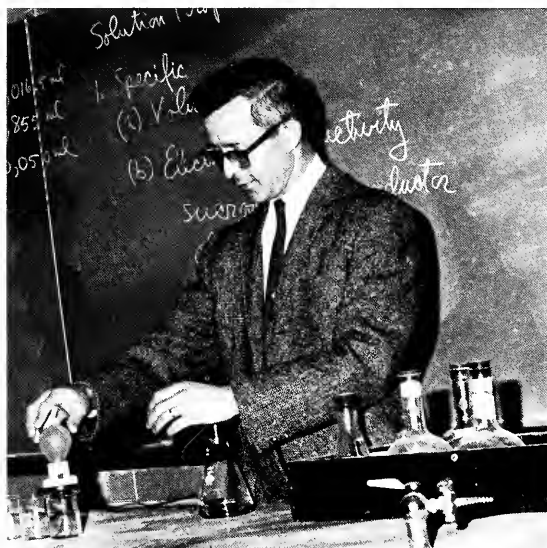

Designed for Non-science Majors

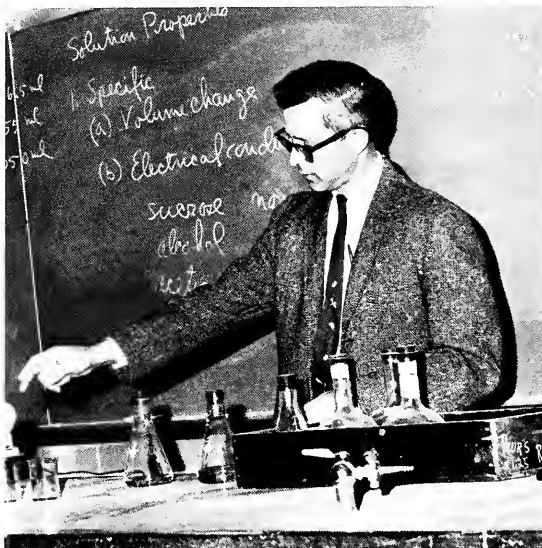

In a lecture demonstration, Professor Zajicek . . .

The Chemistry Department has instituted a new course sequence in its introductory program geared toward the non-science major. The purpose of Chemistry 101 and 102 is not to prepare the student for advanced work in chemistry, but rather to present a study of the fundamental chemical laws and theories, with the object of giving the student a sound scientific training through a course in chemistry. During the first semester, a demonstration period replaces individual laboratory work. The second semester curriculum includes a laboratory period as well as a discussion of chemistry's practical applications.

Through the methods of observation and application, the student gains a broader perspective of chemistry to apply in a society so greatly influenced by science.

*Honor
Societies
Recognize Potential for Contribution to Academic Community*

A step in the student's academic growth comes with election to one of the University's fifteen academic honor societies. The societies do not merely confer laurels upon which the superior scholar may rest; they recognize his potential to return to the academic community a measure of the knowledge and maturity he has gained in his academic pursuits and provide a challenging opportunity to contribute to the growth and excellence of the University. Typical of the traditional programs are student—faculty coffee hours, lectures and symposia open to the 4—college community, construction of laboratory equipment and other instructional aids, supplementary instruction and tutoring programs, educational film series, and the award of scholarships, fellowships, and loans for study at both undergraduate and graduate levels.

Through a new means called the Council of Academic Honor Societies, representatives of the societies consider problems of common concern and develop ways in which betterment of the academic community can be effected co-operatively.

President Lederle, on behalf of the administration, speaks to students agitating for academic and social reform.

President and Mrs. Lederle combine dinner and informal discussions with students at Kappa Kappa Gamma.

"There is a great tendency, I am afraid, to categorize educational experiences. Students, for instance, often speak of their education in terms of individual courses or teachers.

To me, a university education is the totality of four years of varied experiences. All learning is not in the classroom. Look at the variety of enriching experiences available in the residential colleges. The highlight of a day might be a brief visit to an art exhibit, an evening of relaxation listening to the University Symphony, or a furious debate in the Hatch on a moral or political issue. Each is educational in a different way.

The opportunity to probe the mind of an exciting professor in a private conversation in his office can be extremely stimulating. What makes a professor tick? What is he like personally when separated from his notes in the lecture hall?

The disciplined mind of a halfback waiting behind his blockers until the last minute, the trenchant presentation of student senators pushing for a new program, a magazine editor editing copy and laying out pictures, are all educational experiences that are almost totally unaffected by what goes on in the classroom. A truly valuable educational experience may be simply learning to live harmoniously with others in a residence hall.

Our bright young students are all unique. They come from the cities and the farms, from Massachusetts, from other states and from overseas. Some are well-to-do; others have a tough time making ends meet. The point is that they rub off on one another. Each has something to contribute and something to receive from his daily contacts. When we share our ideals, beliefs, knowledge and experiences through books, professors, classrooms, residence halls, or extracurricular activities in a balanced way, we are participating fully in education and developing our individual personalities into The Whole Man."

... Tops Off Day of Enthusiasm

The prospect of upsetting Dartmouth in a regionally televised home football game and of freshmen celebrating the end of upperclass tyranny formed the backdrop of the first Class Day at the University.

Sponsored by the Classes of 1968, 1969, and 1970, Class Day represented an upperclass welcome to the Class of 1971.

A welcome it certainly was, when after the first period Redmen field goal, '71 beanies spiraled into the air to the tune of the University Marching Band and a cascade of fireworks. The enthusiasm of the day carried into the evening, as a packed Cage stomped, swayed, and snapped its fingers to the soul sounds of Jimmy Helms, Stevie Wonder, and Wilson Pickett.

The last strains of the Wilson Pickett Band marked the end of the day and the beginning of a tradition.

Football: Long Hours of Preparation for Saturday's Violence

Unlike the one-day-a-week escape it is for the fan, football is a daily, grueling ritual for the participant. Besides carrying a normal study load, the Massachusetts football player must devote some four to five hours a day to his pastime.

Practice begins at four and consists of two hours of head-butting, knocking, running, listening, drilling, and hitting. Mostly hitting. Regular offensive and defensive maneuvers are polished, new ideas added, and the up-coming opponent's alignments and strategies are plotted against.

Each evening, the players meet in the Boyden gymnasium with the coaches of their respective units. Chalk talks and film analysis comprise most of the meeting time, and the final strategy for Saturday's game is mapped out.

Saturday, the week's labor is rewarded. By noon, most of the players are at the stadium for taping and strapping. The armor of combat: pads, helmet, and cleats, is donned and the player is now ready to bring his seven day struggle of physical power to its weekly climax.

The real hitting begins now.

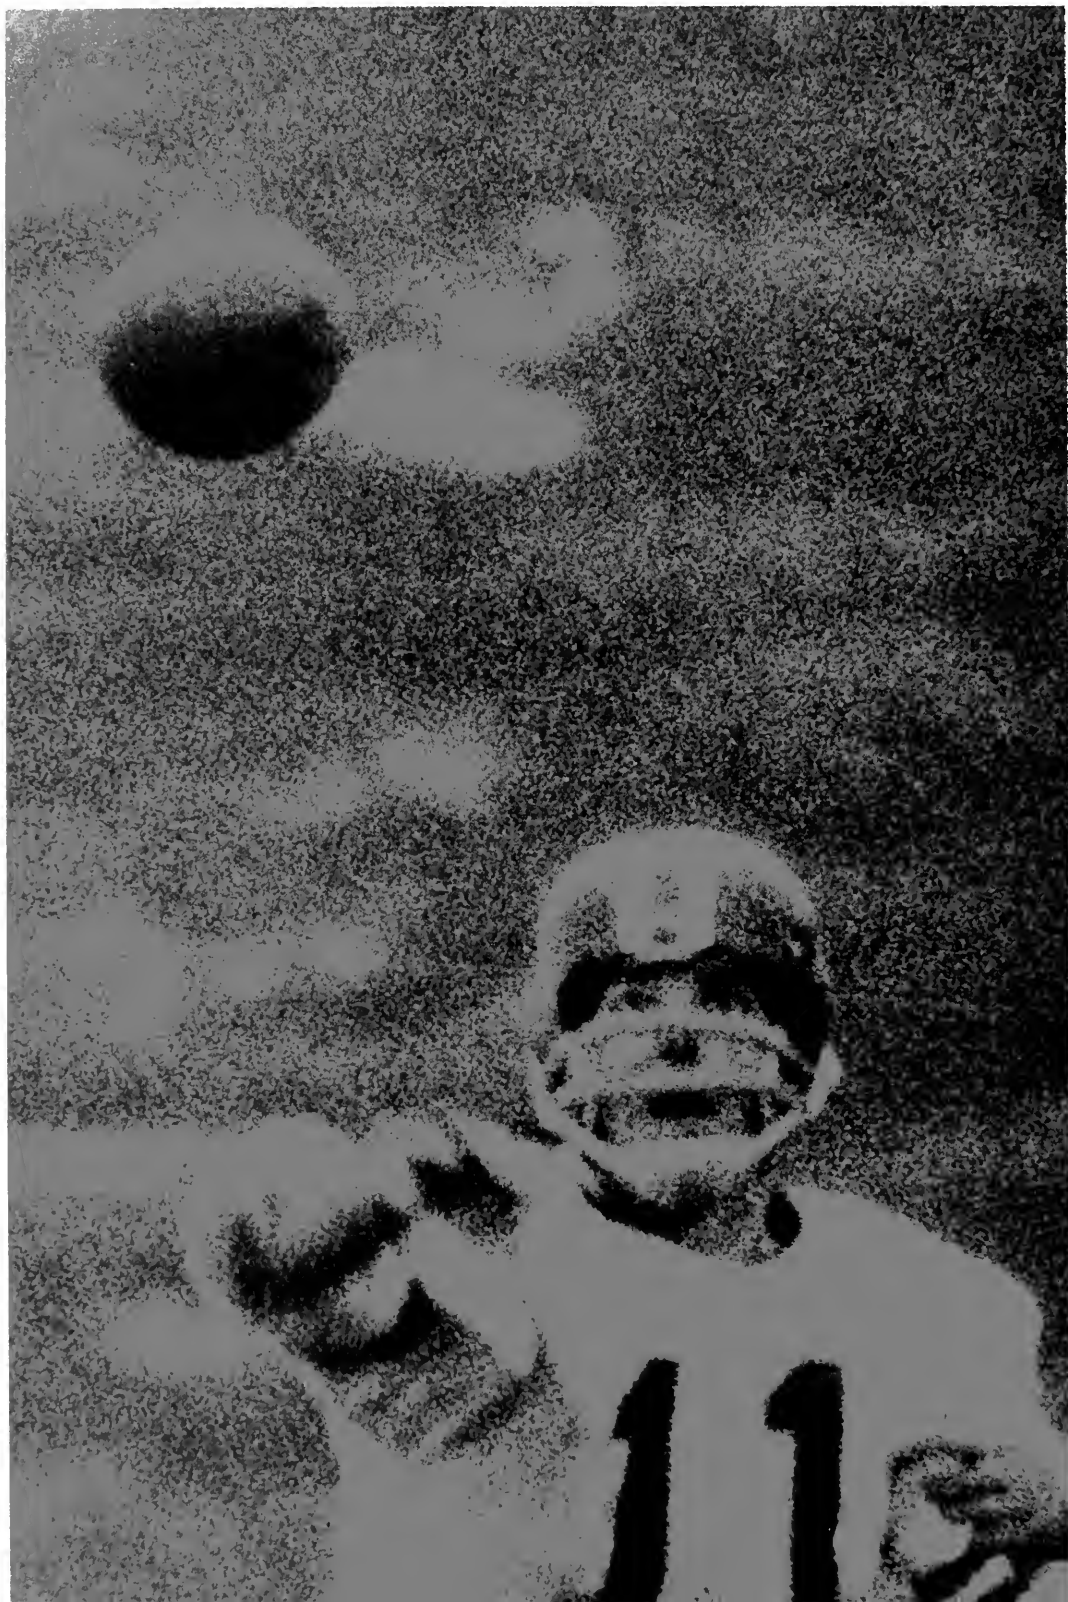

Head Coach Vic Fusia observes with interest as an assistant coach lectures to the defensive unit at one of the nightly team meetings.

It's game time, as Co-Captains Jim Mitchell and Greg Landry lead the Redmen onto the field at Orono, Maine for the 1967 opener.

Gametime: an Explosion of Violence and Spontaneous Emotion

The job of the defense is simple; don't let the other team score. The Massachusetts Redmen managed to do this quite nicely on several occasions in 1967, while failing just twice.

At one point, during a mid-season four game span, they held the opposition scoreless for 13 consecutive quarters.

The outstanding defensive player, as chosen by Varsity M Club, was line backer Ernie Smith. The small but tough senior stopped many a drive with his hard tackling and aggressive pass defense.

Defensive tackle Kent Stevens had his best year and was named the outstanding senior lineman by the Boston Alumni Club. Stevens and senior end Paul Mlinar made two of the biggest plays of the season in the closing minutes of the Rhode Island game. With the Rams ten yards from the winning touchdown, they each broke through on successive plays to down the URI passer and preserve the Homecoming victory.

Two of the hardest Redman hitters were Mike McArdle (25) and Ernie Smith (65). Both were All-Conference, Smith at linebacker and McArdle at corner back. In addition, McArdle was named Co-Captain for 1968.

A pair of agile All-Conference defensive linemen, tackle Kent Stevens (66) and end Paul Mlinar (89), attacking the New Hampshire quarterback.

Individual and Collective Efforts Characterize the Big Plays

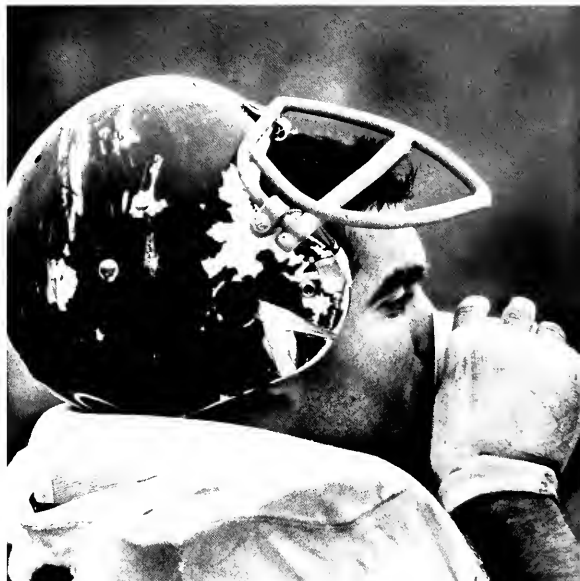

The 1967 football season was filled with exciting moments, great individual and collective efforts, and timely big plays.

In the opening game at Maine, the offensive line totally dominated the Black Bears' defense, and Massachusetts romped 30—9; but the following week saw a defensive collapse as Dartmouth ruined Massachusetts' TV debut 28—10.

A Conference battle at Connecticut resulted in the biggest offensive explosion of the season.

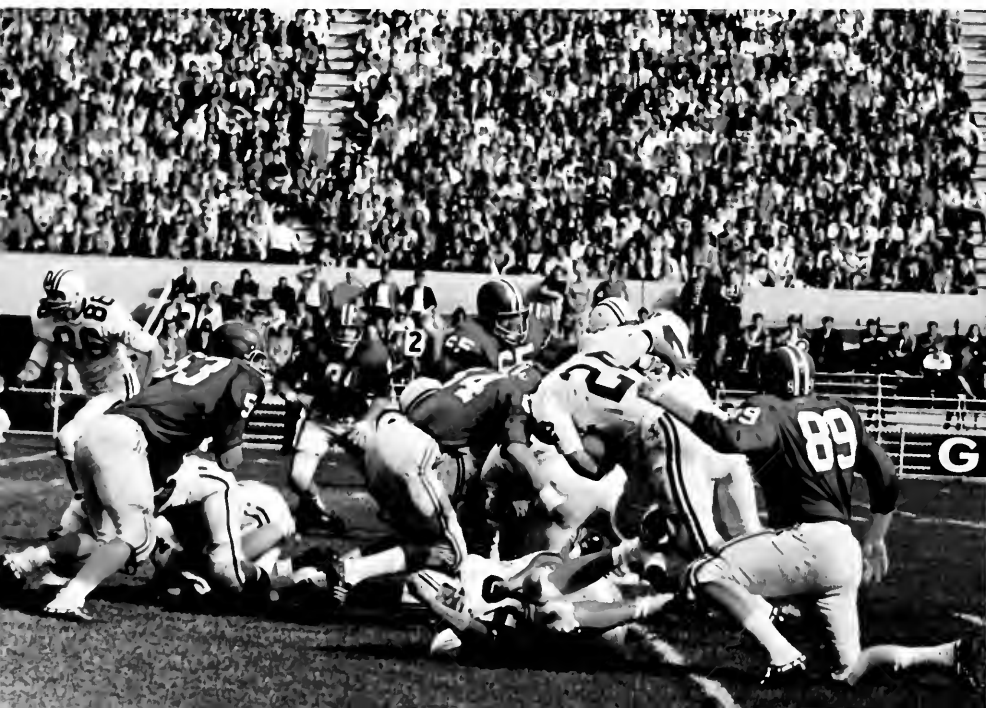

Quarterback Greg Landry triggered a 35 point barrage, scoring twice himself on 34 and 73 yard runs.

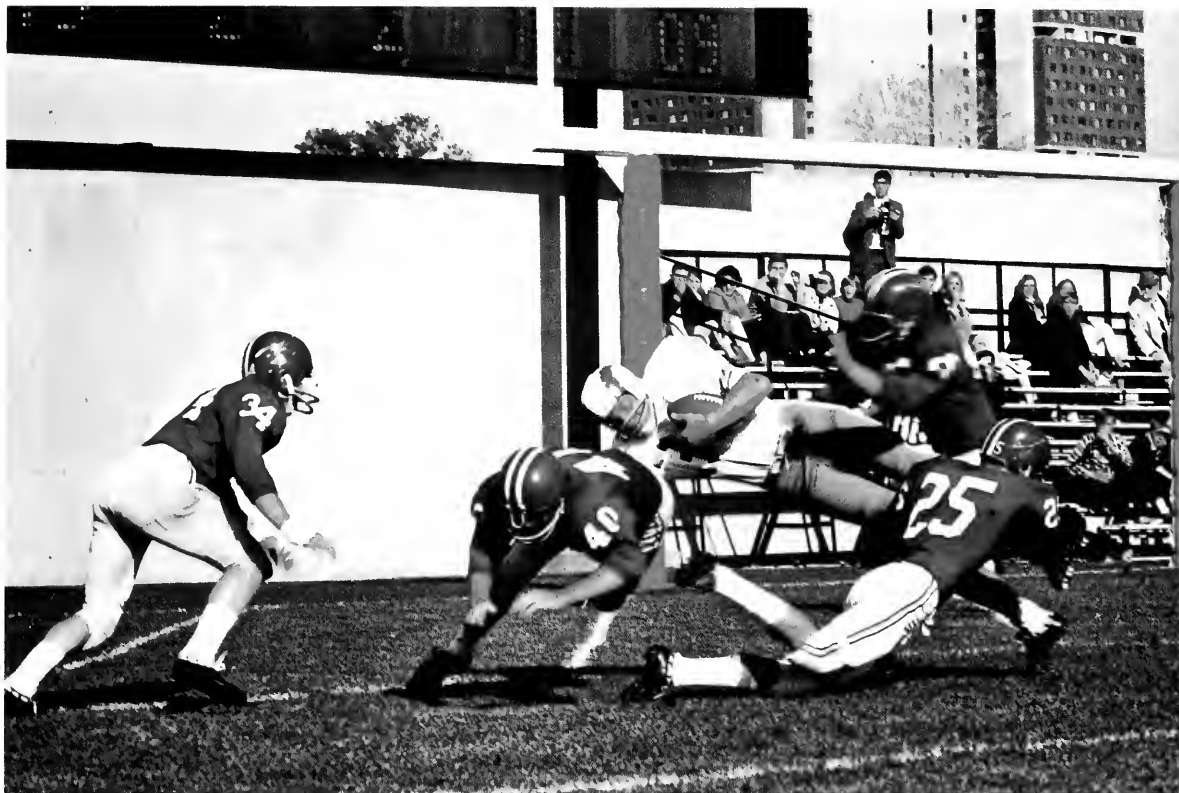

The Homecoming game with Rhode Island provided the season's most exciting game. The Rams stunned the Redmen with an opening play touchdown bomb, rolling up a 24—14 halftime lead. But the defense tightened in the second half, and Landry finished an exciting comeback by racing 37 yards for the winning touchdown. The final score: 28—24.

Battle-scarred and tired, Senior guard Bob Santucci takes a needed rest. He was named to the All-Conference and All-New England teams.

A Dartmouth ball carrier meets some head-on competition from Paul Campbell. Other Redmen include Bruce Gombar (53), Tom York (84), Ernie Smith (65), and Paul Mlinar (89).

This band of determined Redmen, Paul Campbell (34), Steve Rogers (40), Mike McArdle (25), and Ernie Smith, bring a sudden stop to a Rhode Island runner's progress.

The Redmen shut out their next two opponents, both away; at Boston University 24-0, and at Vermont 21-0.

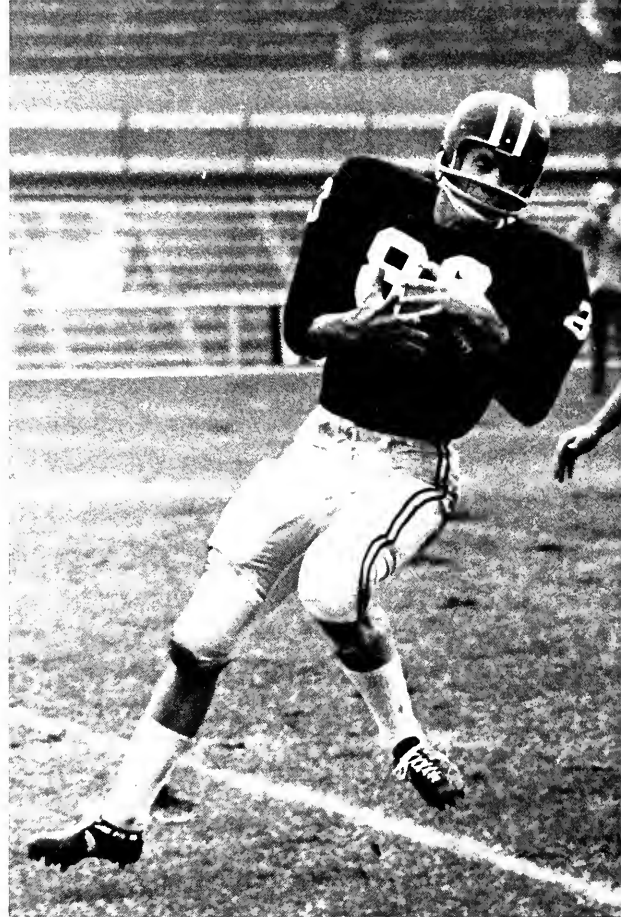

The final home game saw Massachusetts facing a new opponent, Rutgers. Capitalizing on numerous Rutgers mistakes, the Redmen took a commanding lead to win 30-7.

The Yankee Conference championship was decided the following week as the Redmen faced the New Hampshire Wildcats. With the field a sea of mud, the Redmen fought their way to a bitter 14-13 win. Last minute defensive heroics assured Massachusetts of its fourth Conference title in the last five years.

The season's finale was a heartbreaking defeat, as Boston College crushed the Redmen 25-0.

A quick, powerful runner, sophomore halfback Craig Lovell had his best day at the expense of Boston University.

All-Conference split end Nick Warnock led the Redmen in pass receiving with 29 catches, and was named Co-Captain for 1968.

Quarterback Greg Landry finished his varsity career at Massachusetts as the greatest offensive performer in New England football history, amassing over 4000 yards in total offense, and holding 14 school, Yankee Conference, and New England offensive records.

Named to the All Conference team the last two seasons, he was a unanimous All-New England selection in 1967, and was the winner of the coveted Harry Agganis and Bulger Lowe Awards as New England's outstanding gridster.

At the season's end, he performed in the North-South All Star game in Miami, and was the first quarterback in the country selected in the AFL-NFL draft when he was chosen on the first round by the Detroit Lions.

Potent Offense Features Tough, Proven Veterans and Talented Sophomores

Co-captain Jim Mitchell started every game at tackle during his varsity career, and earned All-Conference and All-New England recognition in 1967.

The Massachusetts offense returned to its high scoring ways in 1967 after a dismal, injury-ridden 1966 season. Greg Landry's support was comprised of a corps of proven veterans and some very capable newcomers.

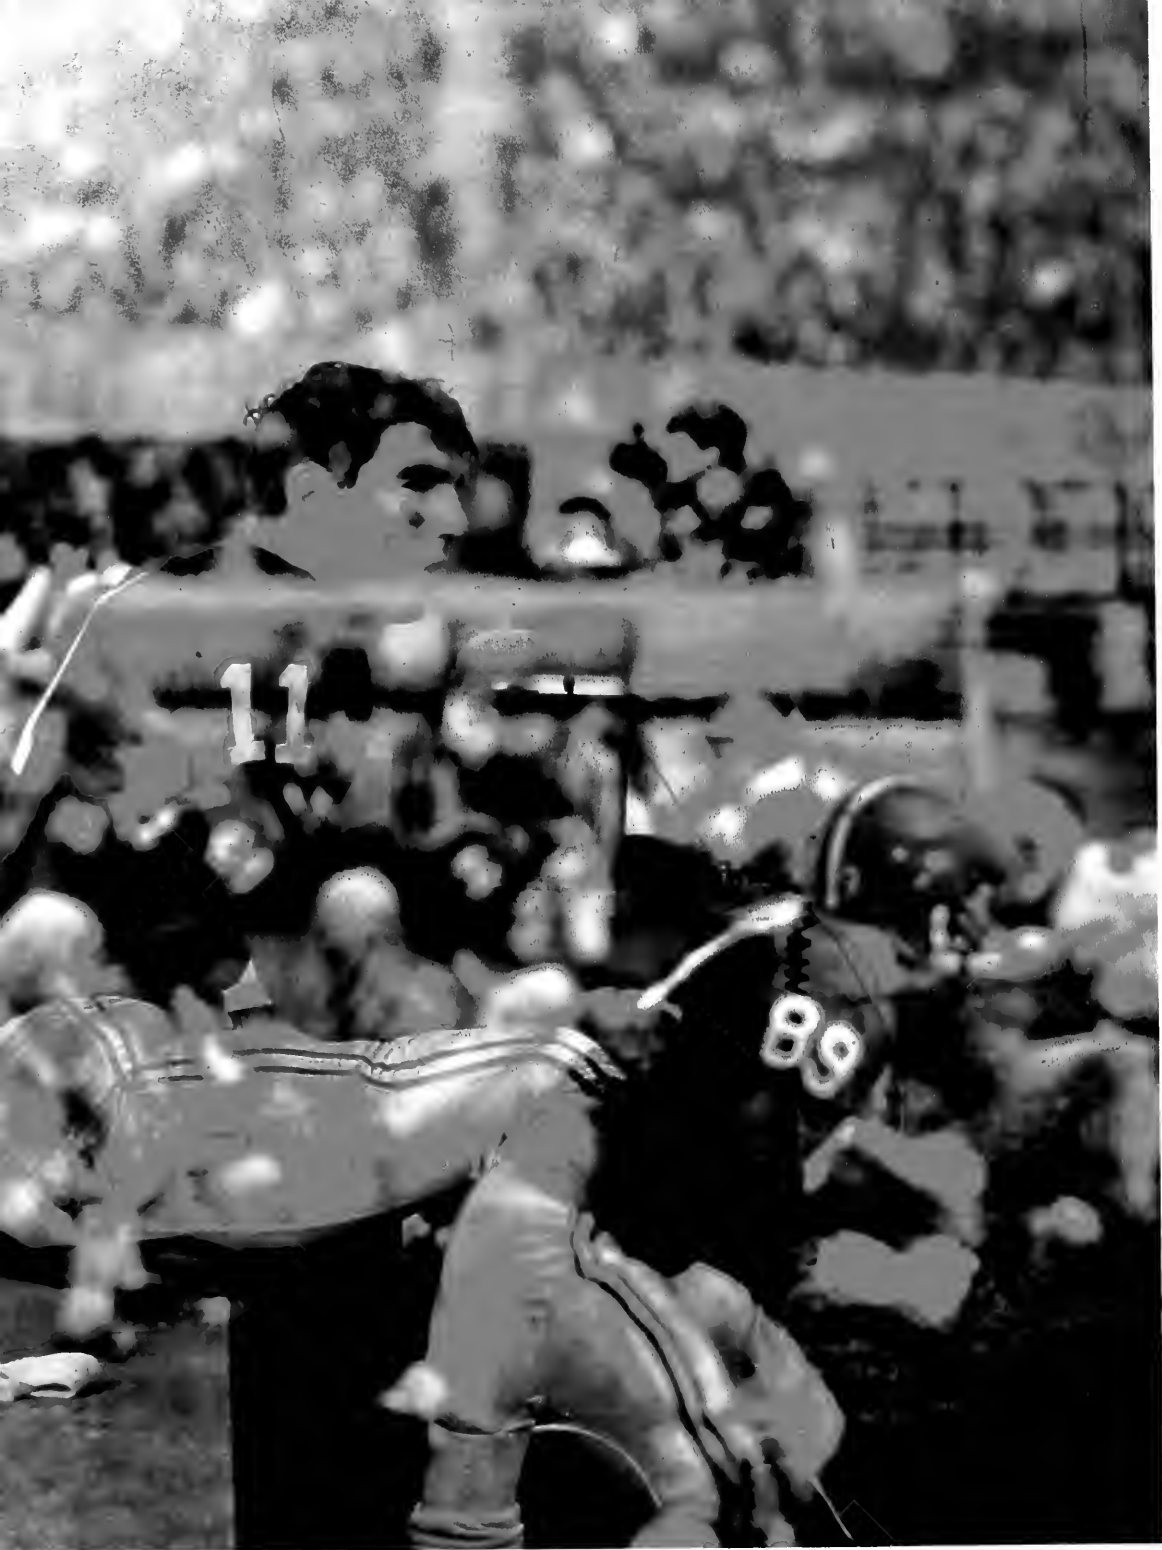

Co-captain Jim Mitchell did a solid blocking job at tackle and guards Don Glogowski and Bob Santucci gave steady, reliable performances. The only other starting Senior was tight end Bill Carty, who finished as the team's second leading receiver, with 15 pass receptions.

The leading receiver was split end Nick Warnock, who also did an effective job of punting. Two other Juniors, Noel Schablik and Bob Sheehan shared the center spot, while halfback Tim Driscoll, fullback Bruce Cochrane, and Fred Hairston ran and blocked well.

The Sophomores were outstanding. Mike Cooney moved right into a starting berth at tackle, and wingback Jerry Grasso was the team's most versatile threat, scoring six touchdowns. Sophomores Craig Lovell and Ed Sarno showed considerable promise, while kick returner Steve Parnell excited the crowds with his long runbacks.

Junior tackle Ed Sherman missed his initial extra point attempt, after the season's first touchdown; he never missed again, as he booted a record 25 straight conversions and three field goals.

Bedlam Reigns as the Boston Red Sox Win the A.L. Flag

On October 1, at 7:39 P.M., a mighty roar, "We're Number One!" burst out of every dormitory on campus. It grew, and grew, and grew—louder and louder as 6,000 worshippers reveled in the newly-won knowledge that their Boston Red Sox had clinched the pennant. Pouring out of their rooms, the wild-eyed fans kissed, hugged and screamed their way to an impromptu bonfire by the pond and a victory march through Amherst. The joy and excitement of the night carried through the World Series as television rooms were jammed, transistor radios were ever present and studies were forgotten. The Red Sox eventually lost the World Series, but their University fans will never forget those exciting two weeks.

Parade, rally, bonfire and psychedelic light and sound show were but a few events to entertain students and greet alumni Friday night—the start of Homecoming 1967.

Saturday afternoon filled Alumni Stadium with exuberant fans, thrilled by the performance of a victorious Redmen team against the University of Rhode Island. Shirley Capecci, Class of 1970, reigned as Homecoming Queen over the weekend events. The post-game hours of reunions and victory celebrations set the spirit for the Saturday evening entertainment of Mitch Ryder and the Happenings. Sunday's dichotomy of sound contrasted the sophisticated jazz of Stan Getz with the contemporary folk-rock of Donovan.

For undergraduates, the weekend spurred anticipation for future years, while giving alumni fond memories of University life.

And the Beat Goes on

Electronics and colors surrounded the performance of the Blues Magoos.

The Boys from New York City paralleled their way-out sounds with even wilder stage settings.

The sophisticated sax of Stan Getz created an upbeat aura of jazz.

The psychedelic light and sound show, "After the Third World Raspberry", stimulated unprecedented excitement Friday night.

Talent acclaimed in every way, the Happenings provided entertainment for all.

Redman Booters 5—5 Overall; Second in Conference

Led by co-captains Gerry Cellilli and Dick Hale, the Redman soccer team finished its season with an overall 5—5 tally, and a Yankee Conference record of 4—1.

Coach Larry Briggs was sidelined halfway through the season with an infected foot, and Dean Dave Bischoff assumed the regular coaching duties for the remaining matches.

Key Conference games were played versus Connecticut and Vermont. The Connecticut game, a hard-fought battle, required two overtime periods to result in a Redman win. The crucial game, however, came against four-year-rival Vermont, the defending champion. Although the Redmen went down to defeat 3—0, they secured second place in the Conference for the second year in a row.

Superlative performances were turned in by Seniors: Gerry Cellilli, All New England and All Yankee Conference; Dick Hale, All Yankee Conference; and Marty Smith, Honorable Mention in the Yankee Conference.

Entertainment was not the only objective of the J.F.K. Memorial Concert. The proceeds will be contributed toward the construction of a memorial room to the late President Kennedy in the newly-appropriated 28-story University Library.

Featuring Phil Ochs, the Jim Kweskin Jug Band, and the Mitchell Trio, the afternoon concert of November 29 was a presentation of unique and varied styles in folk music.

Tri-captains Fred Babakian, Steve Brown, and Bob Leclair led the Redman gymnasts to their first winning season, and highest League position since joining the Eastern Intercollegiate Gymnastic League four years ago. The Redmen held third place going into the League championships, but were edged by Springfield and Navy to finish the season in fifth position with a 6—4 overall and a 4—3 League record.

Junior Dick DelGallo, who performed on the rings, competed in the NCAA Gymnastics Championships in Tucson, Arizona, finishing in eighth place, the highest finish for a Massachusetts gymnast in the team's history.

Frustration and disappointment marked this year's hockey team. Lack of size and experience, coupled with inconsistent play and defense hurt on the ice against a powerful opposing schedule. The pucksters compiled a 5—11 ECAC Division II record and a 5—15 overall.

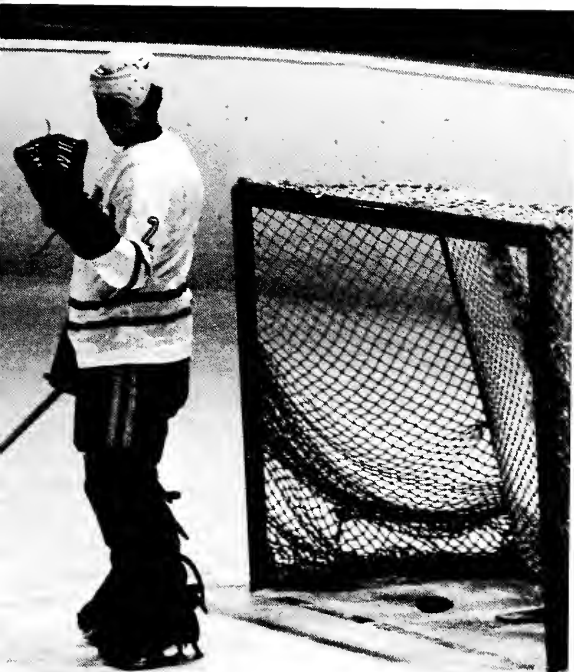

Two players who must be acknowledged for their efforts are wing Jeff Sanborn and goalie Peter Scoville. Junior Sanborn scored 18 goals and 14 assists for 32 points in 20 games. He was high scorer for the team and is seventh on the all-time Massachusetts scoring lists. Sophomore Scoville kept the Redmen in many games, making a total of 708 saves, including an incredible 65 saves against powerhouse New Hampshire, for an average of 37.3 per game.

Coach Caniff has brighter hopes for next year's squad. He loses only three men to graduation; team captain Frank Buckler, Don Robinson, and Dave Goldberg. With so many returning lettermen and a strong Freshman team to fill in the ranks, Coach Caniff is looking for a winning season next year.

From Knighthood and Chivalry to the World of Sadie Hawkins

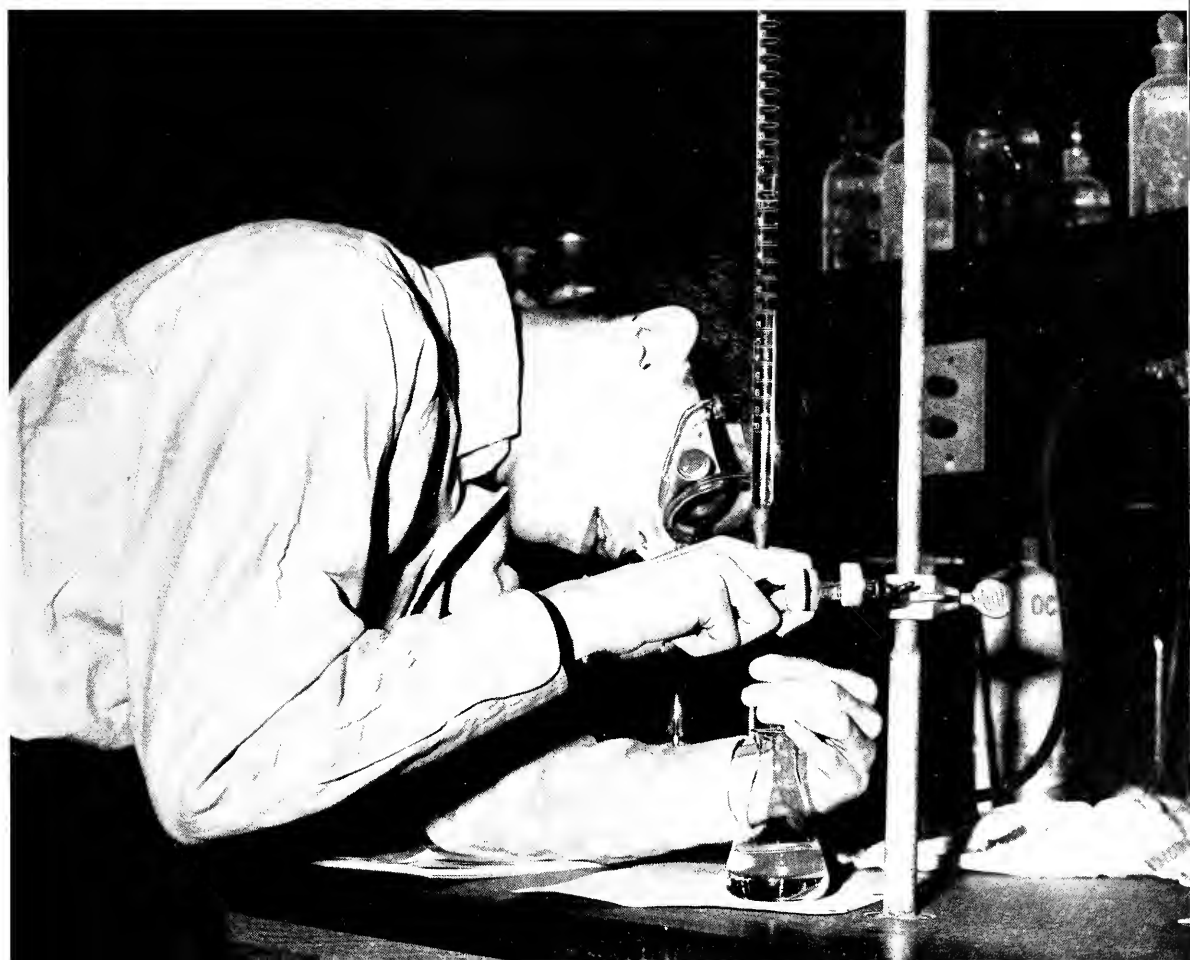

The Operetta Guild opened its musical season with "Once Upon a Mattress." The comedy take-off on the fairy tale "The Princess and the Pea" brought the splendor of medieval times to the stage. Its second production brought madness and mayhem to UMass as the comic strip world of Al Capp was recreated in the zany and hilarious musical "L'il Abner." Throughout a successful campus and state-wide engagement the good citizens of Dogpatch demonstrated the advantages of the hillbilly over the city slicker.

International Opinions Viewed Through DVP

The Distinguished Visitors Program is financed and operated by the undergraduate students of the University for the purpose of keeping the university community sensitive to the world in which it exists.

In accordance with this purpose, it seeks to bring to the campus those persons whose experience in international and domestic affairs, the sciences, the humanities and the arts qualify them to interpret, explain and raise questions about life in all its dimensions. Furthermore, the Distinguished Visitors Program seeks to stimulate critical thought and debate by presenting a balanced range of opinion with respect to a given issue.

Combining humor with emotion, Dick Gregory spoke to a packed audience about racism and Black Power.

Former assistant to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, Arthur Schlesinger spoke about the Vietnam dilemma.

Supreme Court Justice Douglas diverged from his speech of law by discussing current problems.

Vietnam was the topic as Former Ambassador Tran Van Dinh related America's role in world events.

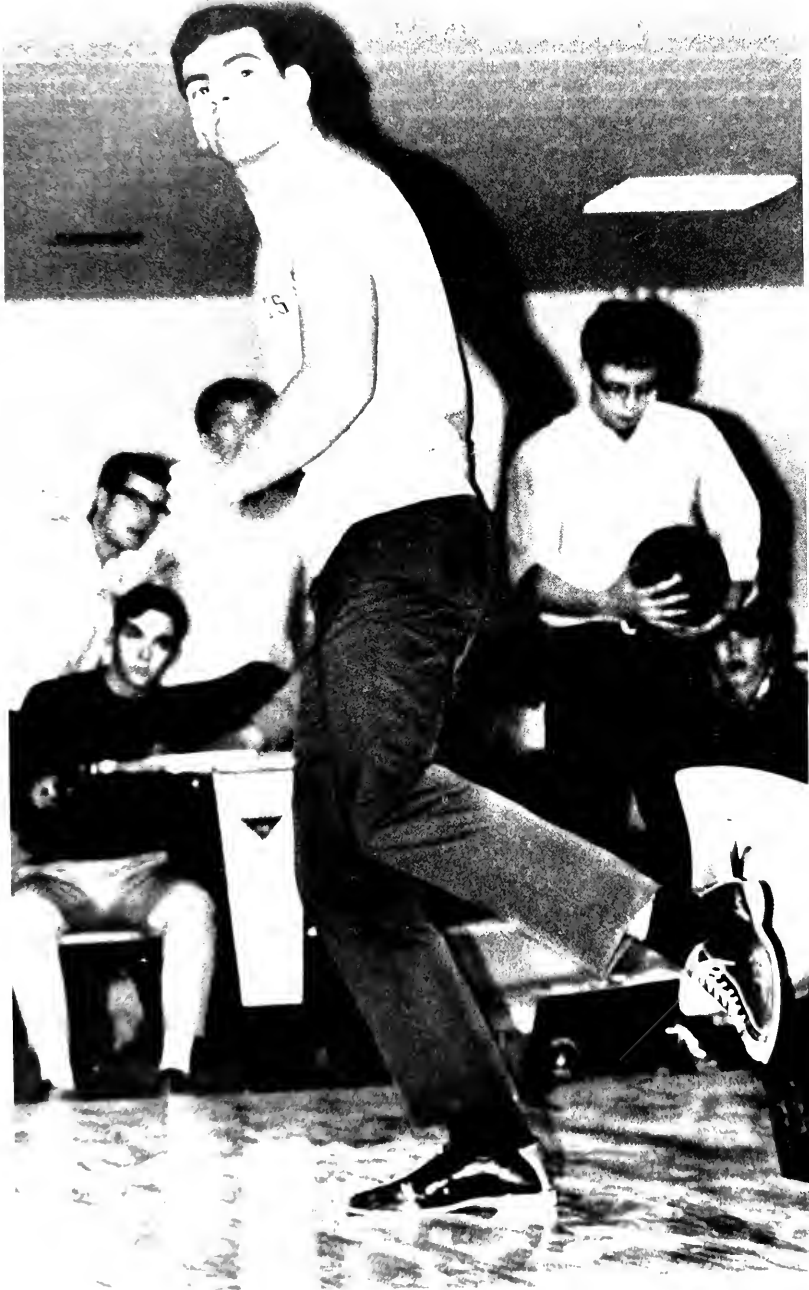

Weariness Is . . .

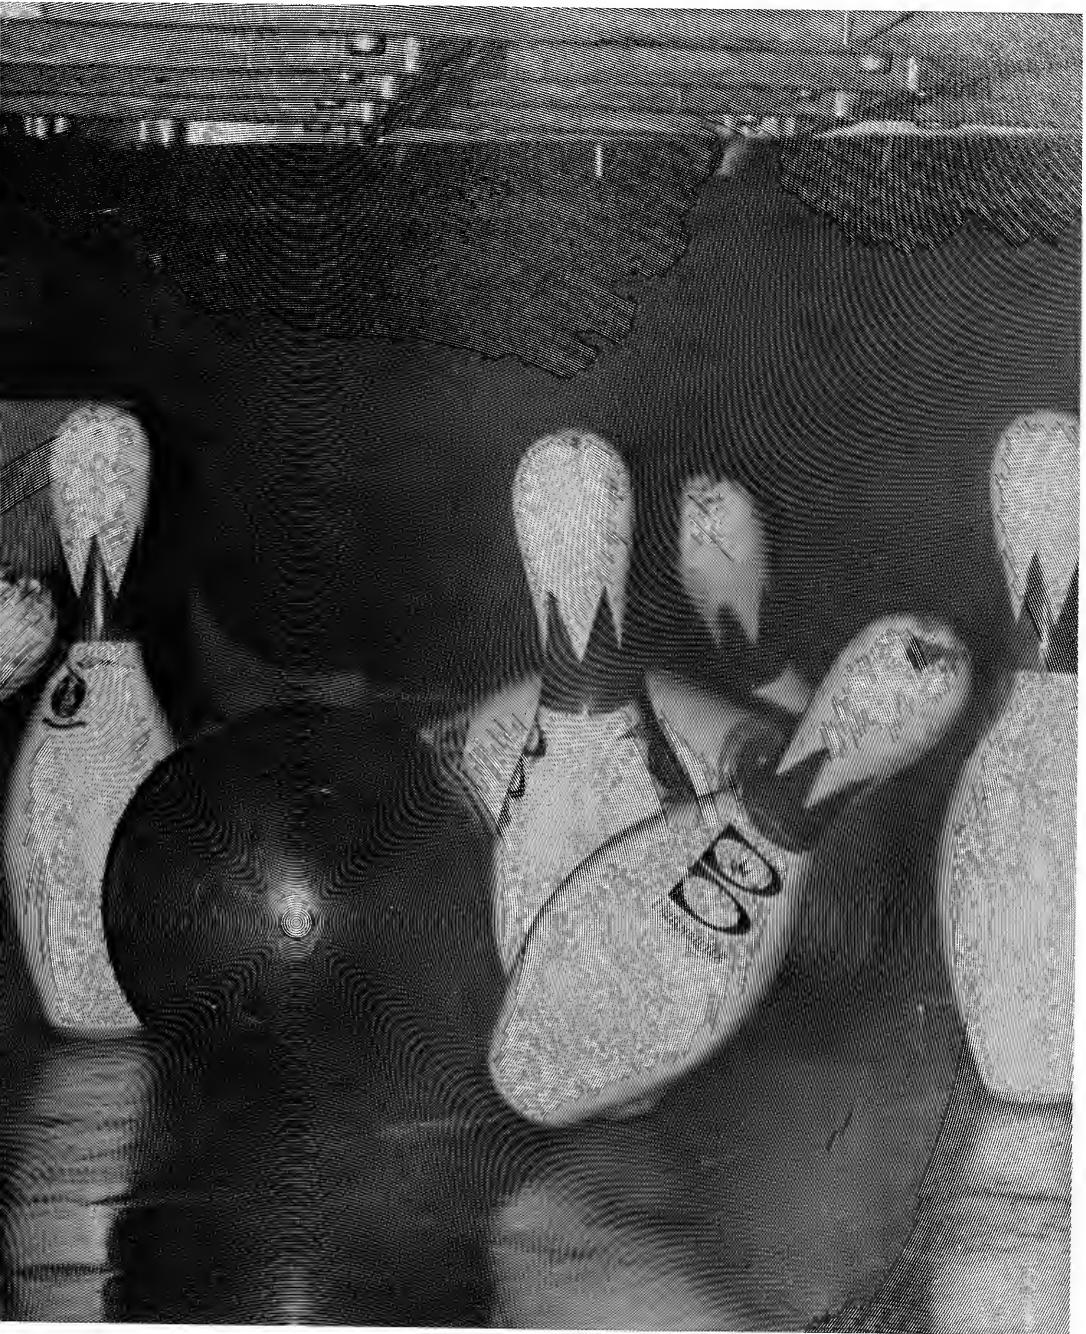

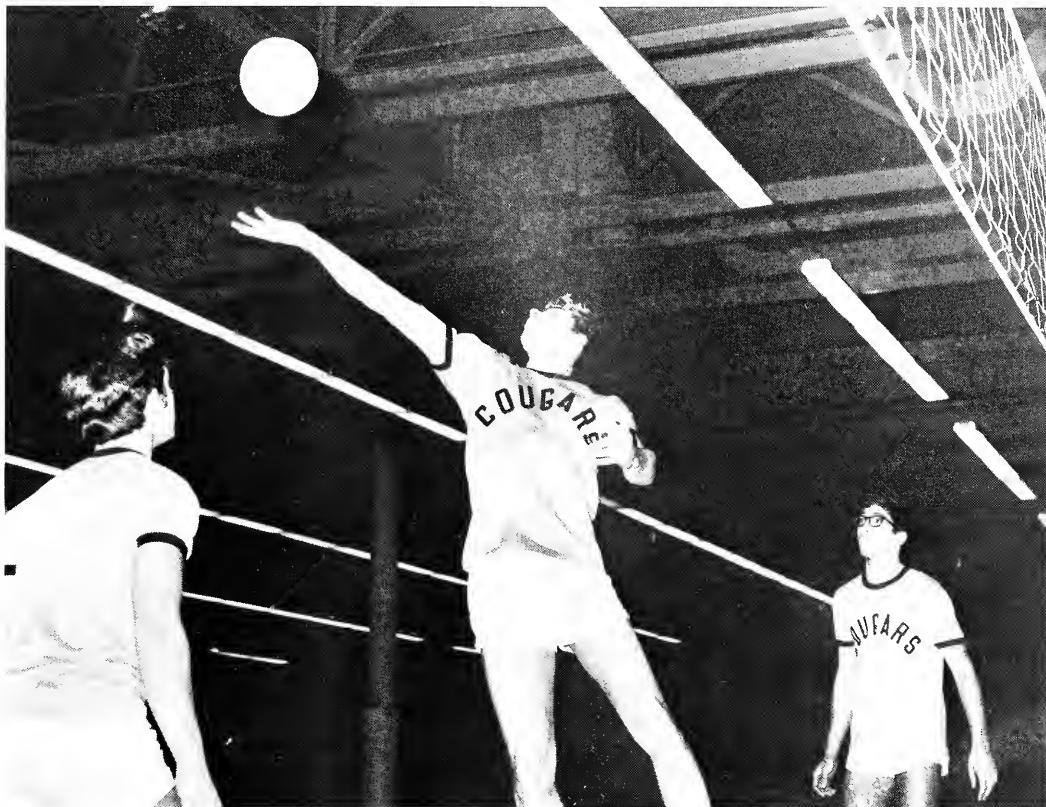

Winter Intramurals Shorten . . .

the Long Months

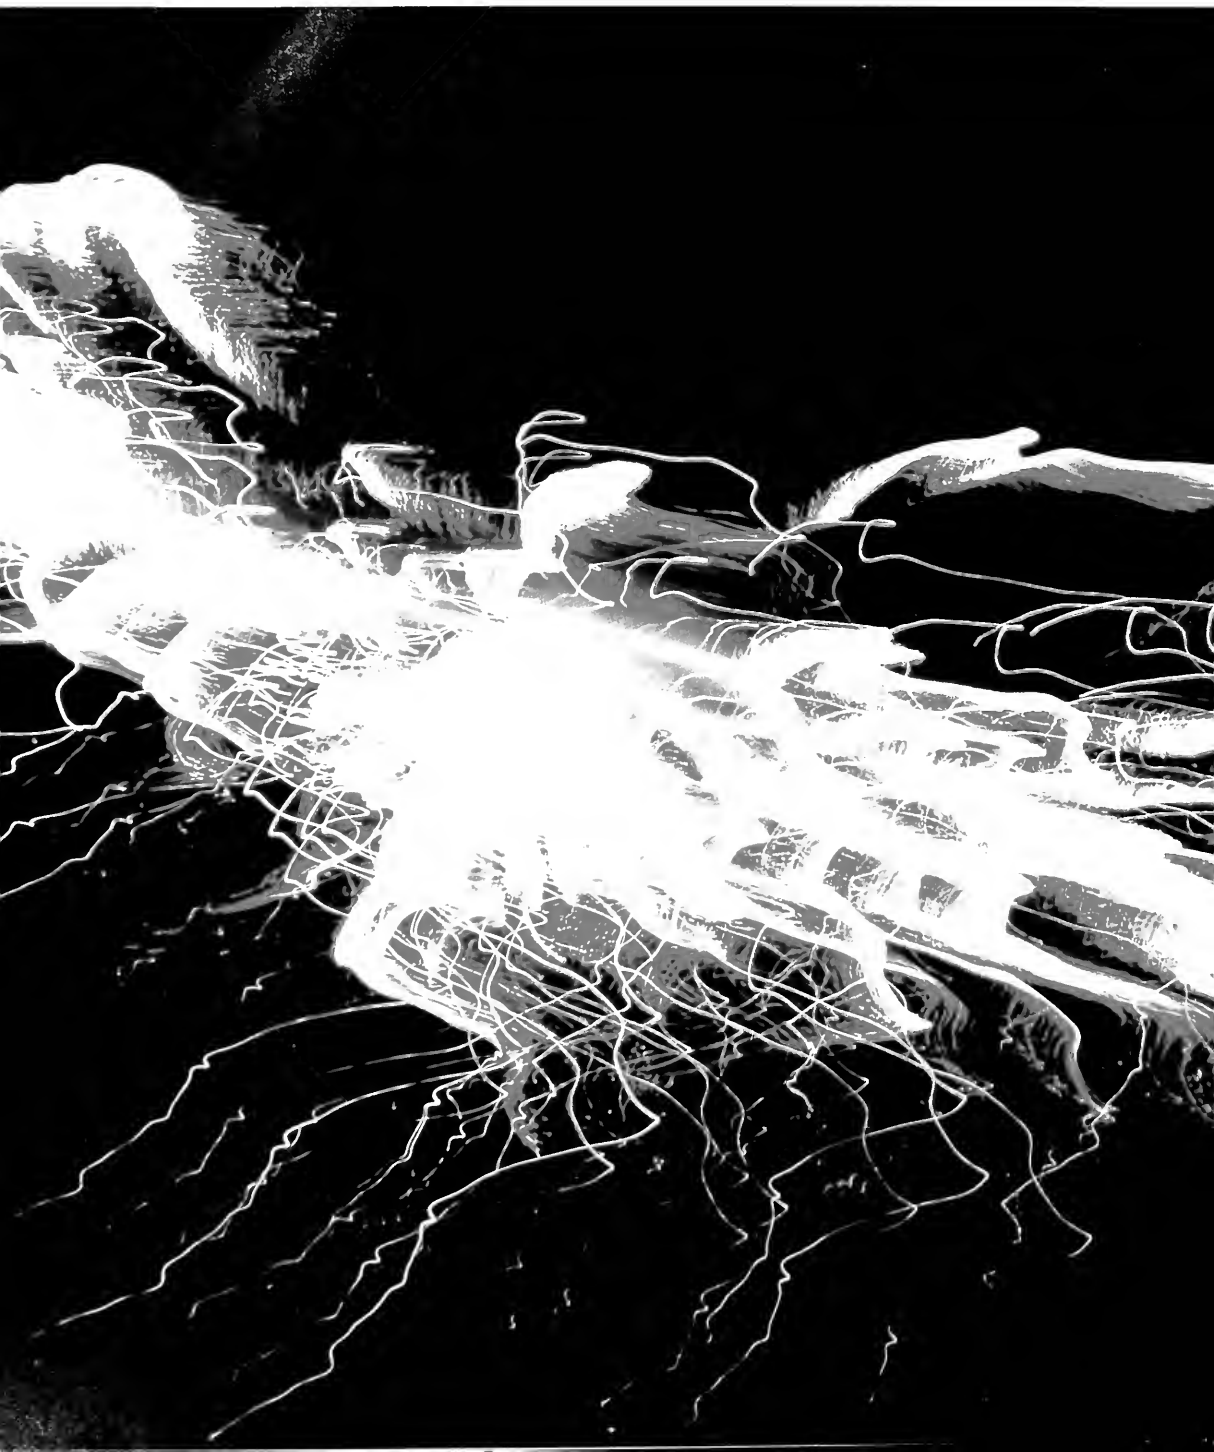

The intramural program at the University of Massachusetts occupies an important position in a student's campus life. It affords every student the opportunity to participate in some form of competitive activity. The program itself covers all seasons and all sports no matter what the individual's interests.

The success of the program depends primarily upon student interest in planning and executing it, as well as in actual participation.

Massachusetts has had an informal intramural program since 1949. However, the program has been growing in proportion with the school. Widespread undergraduate, graduate, and faculty participation in intramural sports is becoming a tradition at the University of Massachusetts.

"I would rather go out and entertain than discuss Vietnam. I think people want to be entertained. You go out of business after you talk about such issues."

"I like to do college performances. The audience is more sophisticated; the kids are really hip to things happening."

"No, I don't think marijuana should be legalized. It is psychologically addicting. I think it might lose some of its popularity though."

And H-e-r-e-'s Johnny

Johnny Carson made one of his rare college performances as the Saturday night highlight of Winter Carni 1968. The congenial Tonight Show host delighted the audience with his rapid-fire humor, while Doc Severinsen and the NBC orchestra provided musical diversions of reverberating sounds. A dancing trip through the ages was performed by the team of Bud and Cici Robinson, and a vocal interlude by CeCe Grant completed a show of music, dance, wit, and song. The Johnny Carson Show was a welcomed addition to the list of our favorite things.

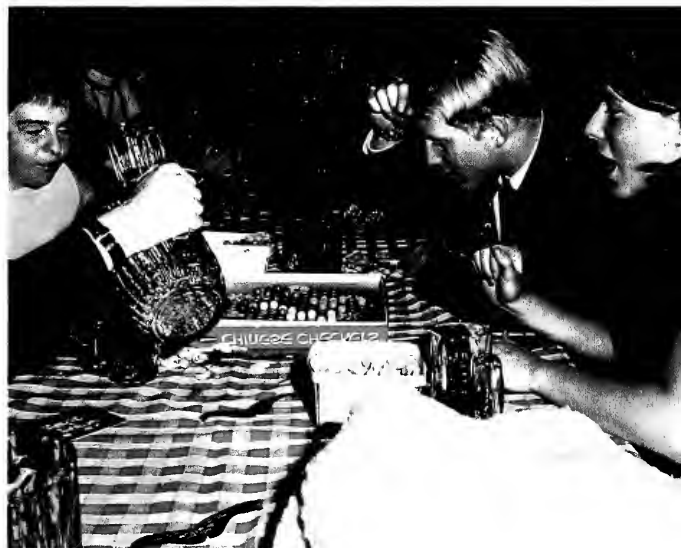

Olympics Spectacular Follows Friday Night's "Your Father's Mustache"

Entertainment for Friday night included the Banjo Band and the "Great Friendship", as the Student Union Ballroom was transformed into "Your Father's Mustache" Night Club. Audience participation was the emphasis as waiters as well as guests joined in the repertory of old songs.

Participation was also the theme of Saturday's Winter Olympics. Contests on ice were rewarding for all: trophies for the participants and hilarity for the observers.

Comedian Frank Welker consistently broke up the audience with his riotous routines.

The Righteous Brothers performed for the UMass campus on-stage and off-stage as well.

Glen Campbell backed up his talented singing ability with his spontaneous and natural stage manner.

Hard Work . . .

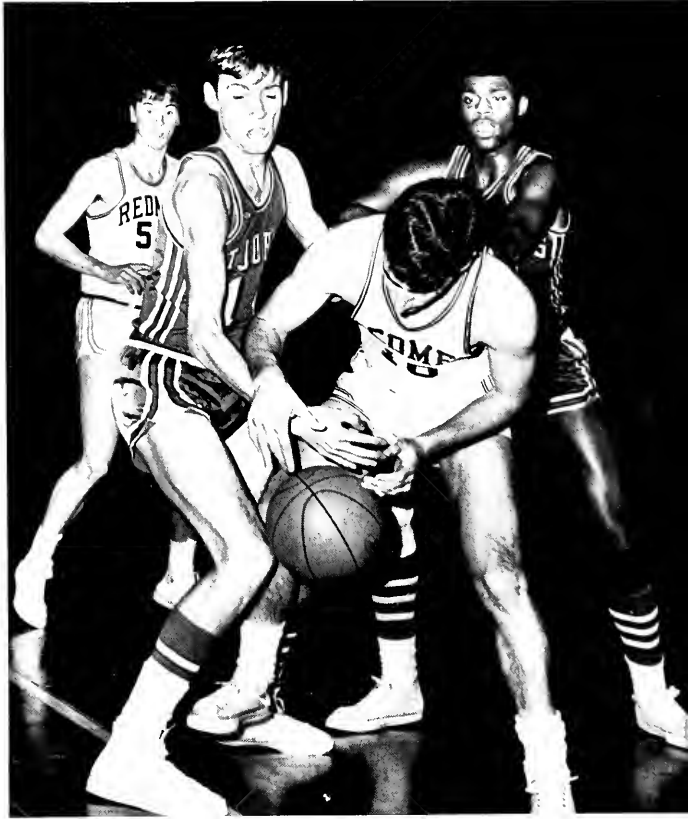

The basketball season started off on a bright note with an opening game win over New Hampshire at the Cage; but the outlook turned bleak when the hoopsters lost their next four games on the road, one a Conference game versus Rhode Island. Two of the losses were at the Steel Bowl, one a heartbreaker against Pittsburgh lost in the last seconds after the Redmen had led throughout the game.

After their disappointing road trip, Leaman's squad returned to the Cage for two easy victories. Of these, the Maine game provided a surprise for the Redmen in the playing of Dick Samuelson, who took over the position of center when Pete Gayeska was ejected.

During Christmas break, the hoopsters traveled to Storrs for the Connecticut

Classic, an event which pits Yankee Conference teams against Southern teams. Massachusetts dropped the first game of the tourney to Texas Christian, but came back in the second to trounce William and Mary.

The Redmen won their next two games on the road during intercession, and seemed on their way to a third at Vermont when John Shockro scored at the buzzer to send the game into overtime. However, the Catamounts were not to be stopped, and Massachusetts went down to defeat, dropping to fourth place in the Conference standings.

The first game of the new semester was played at the Cage against Providence. Although the Redmen were defeated, Coach Leaman resolved the last position on his starting team with Senior Gary Gasperack.

The televised ECAC game-of-the-week at Yale turned out to be a disaster. The Redmen never stood a chance after the start of the second half when they were down by twenty points.

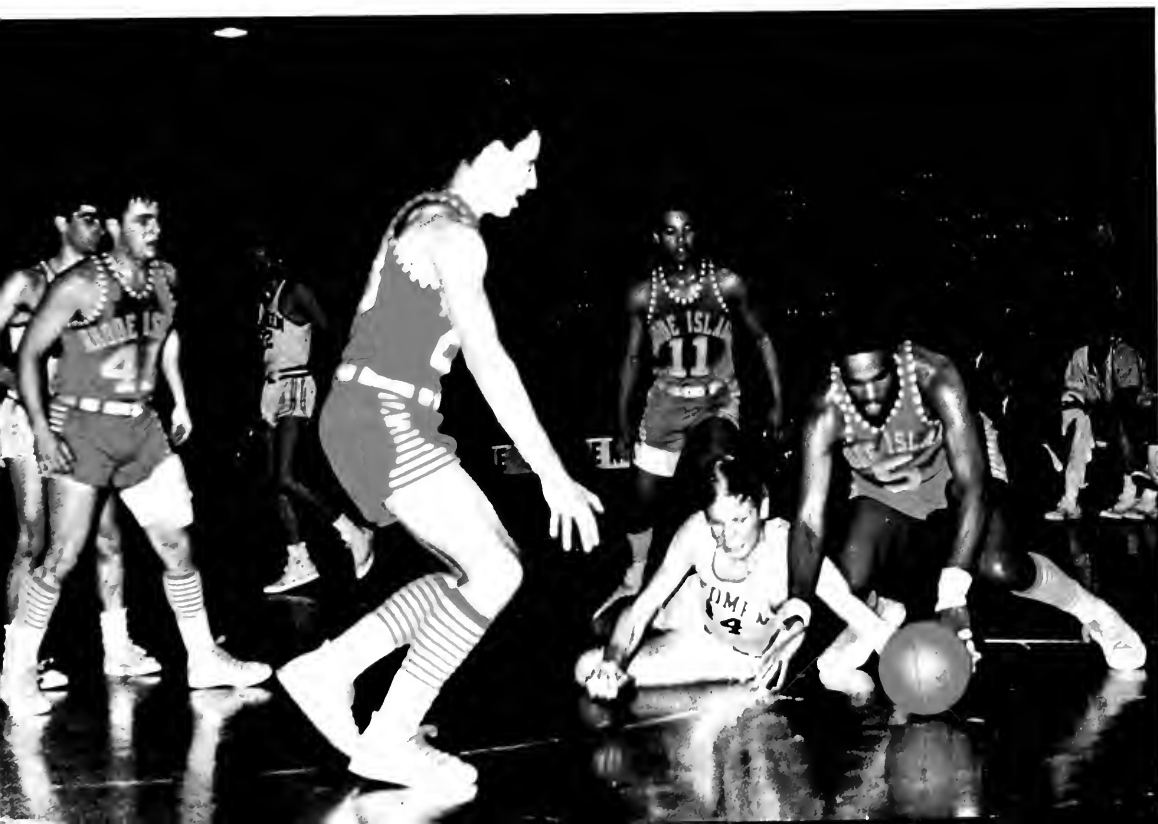

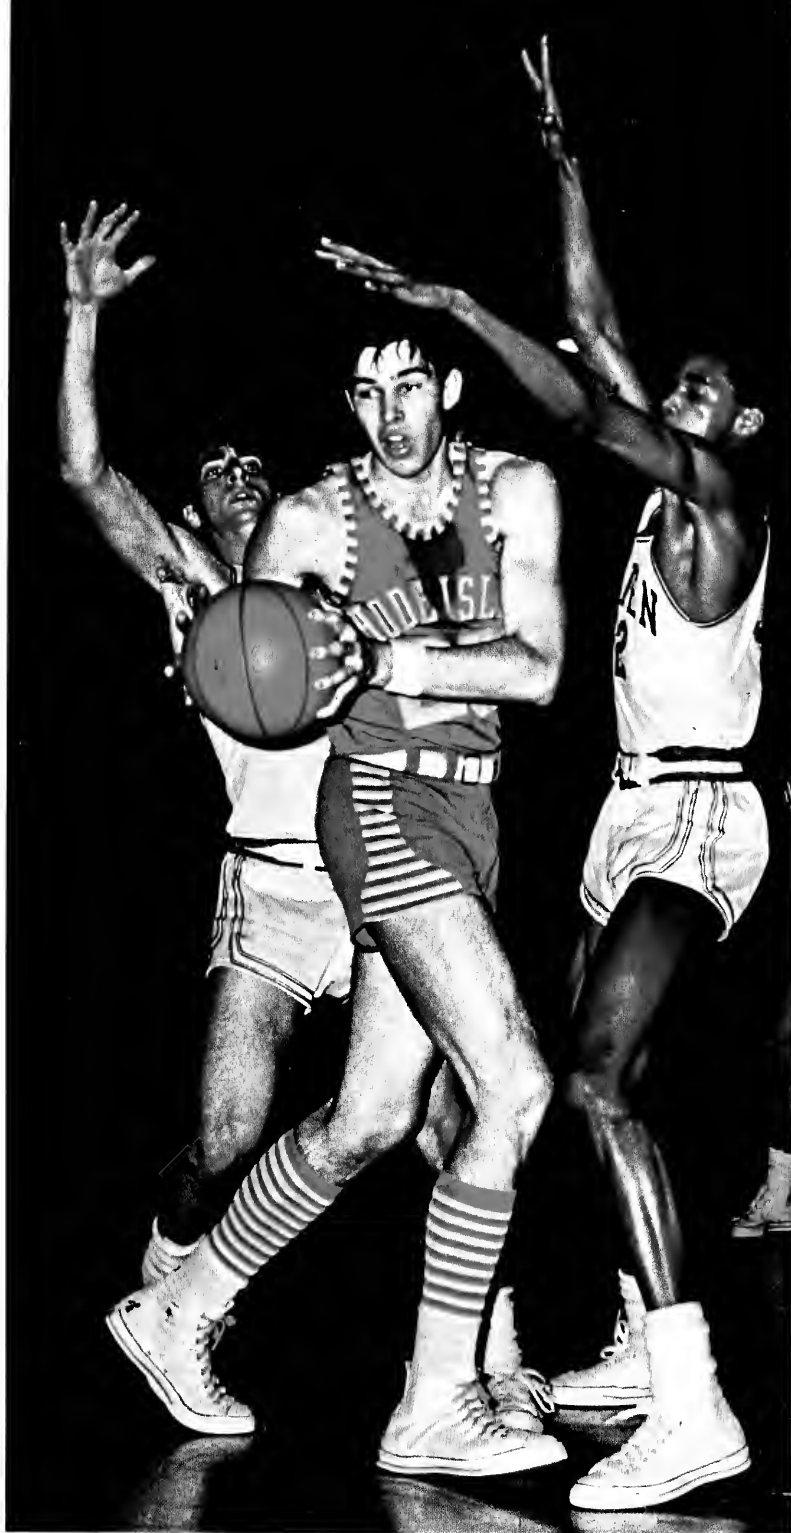

Sparks a Tenacious Defense . . .

An important Conference win came against UConn at the Cage. After a close game, the Redmen finished ahead by two points scored in a 25-foot last-second basket by Tindall. Tindall duplicated this feat in the next game, A.I.C., with only two seconds left. A steal by Shockro cinched the win.

The next contest proved a disaster for the Redmen. They were completely outclassed by Bob Cousy's B.C. veterans. But on their return to the Cage they came back, avenging their earlier loss to Vermont by outscoring them by 28 points. Leaman took out all the starters except Tindall, who established a new scoring record for one game with 41 points.

The Redmen suffered a disappointing loss in their next game. They were literally fouled out of the game as Holy Cross went to the line 23 times in the last half as opposed to Massachusetts' six.

Now the team travelled to Storrs to face Connecticut and the 32-year jinx that had troubled them at the Storrs court. This was a crucial game, a loss for either team eliminated them from the Conference race.

At one point the officials argued on a call as DiSarcina and UConn's Crisp collided. One referee called charging on DiSarcina, the other blocking on Crisp.

The conflict was resolved by recording the foul against each player, and calling a jump ball. It was a poor game for both teams, but the Redmen ended it ahead by twelve points.

Then back to the Cage to meet St. John's. The New York Redmen expected an easy win, and were shocked as Massachusetts led through the game. Tempers flared in the last half as what appeared to be a stuffed ball to the home team, bench, and fans was officially scored as a tap-in. The crowd roared in dismay and the UMass players and coach protested, but the officials stood firm. St. John's scored with less than one minute left, clipping the Redmen 55—53.

... to Give the Redmen a Share of the Conference Title

During Winter Carnival week, the Redmen met Rhode Island at the Cage. Before a capacity crowd, they avenged themselves against the Rams. They appeared to be proving false the Sports Illustrated prediction of an easy Conference win by the Rams.

The team next travelled to Orono for their last Conference game. This was a close game and a dangerous one as Tindall fouled out at the start of the second half. With one minute left, Maine scored to send the game into overtime; but the Redmen pulled it out, winning by eight points. Then to Boston to meet Northeastern. The Redmen led in the first half, but the Huskies came back to tie the score with 25 seconds to play. For the third time in the season, Tindall scored the winning basket in the last seconds of play.

The final game of the season was played at the Cage against B.U. The Redmen took the lead after intermission and never lost it.

Though this game was important, the crucial game was being played at Storrs. After the game, most of the crowd stayed to hear the outcome of the Storrs game. Groups of Redmen fans clustered around radios to hear the last minutes. The final score: UConn 62—URI 58. The Redmen and the Rams share first place in the Conference!

For the Redmen, this was a winning season and a satisfying one. Captain Bill Tindall captured the scoring record for one game, and finished second only to Clarence Hill in total career points with 1259 points. Tindall and Joe DiSarcina were chosen for the All Yankee Conference first team, and Pete Gayeska and Ray Ellerbrook for the second team.

This was a young team with only four Seniors, and only two of them on the starting team. With Gayeska, Ellerbrook, and DiSarcina from the first string and most of the second string returning, next year promises to hold more excitement in store for the fans as Massachusetts battles to gain sole possession of the Yankee Conference title.

The Massachusetts ski team entered the 1968 season determined to better their two-year second place Conference standing; and in the ten Conference meets managed to fulfill that goal, at the same time gaining personal recognition for several team members.

The skiers met A.I.C., Amherst, Bentley, Boston University, Northeastern, Tufts, and Worcester Polytech at each meet, and scored in either first or second place every time. The only real competition was provided by Amherst, as the Redmen skied to first place in the New England Intercollegiate Ski Conference for the first time in 30 years.

Three Massachusetts skiers were named in the Conference top ten; captain Colin Garstang, in first place, Dave Kamila in seventh, and Mike Zanoli in eighth. Another team member, John Hurd, was awarded the annual award for sportsmanship and service to the Conference.

*Massachusetts' Matmen Wrestle

Little Student Support*

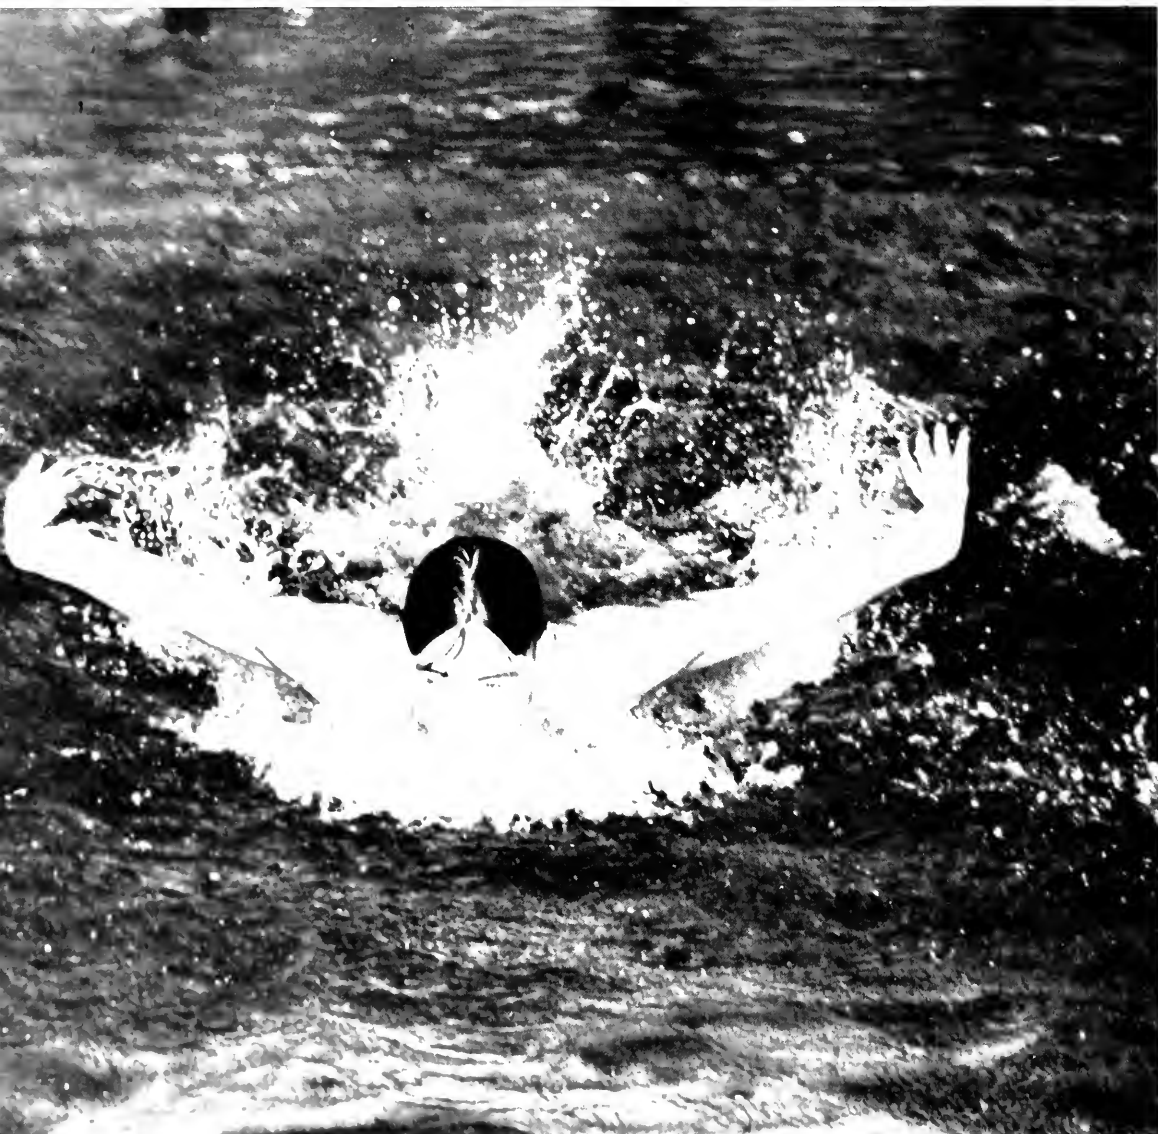

One of the most often ignored varsity sports at the University is wrestling. In spite of this, the matmen of 1968 posted the most wins in their history, finishing with a 6—7 record, and fifteenth place in the N.E.I.W.A.

The Redmen upset Amherst 26—19 in a match highlighted by the superlative performance of Bill Goodwin. Boston College was pinned 29—13 in a solid team showing with key performances being turned in by Brian Urquhart, Mike McKenna, Ernie Smith, and Glenn Cummins. The greatest team effort came in the match with Worcester Polytech which the Redmen won by a score of 31—16. However, the number of significant wins was overshadowed by losses in which the Redmen were outclassed, such as the loss to N.C.A.A. wrestling champions Wilkes College who shut out the Redmen 51—0.

Captain Gene Paltrineri led the wrestlers through a season which, though not outstanding, did raise hopes for next year with many returning members and the rise of the Freshmen, who were undefeated throughout this season.

Rich Doneghue broke the record for the 200-yard butterfly, and Al Northrup tied the record for the 200-yard breaststroke in the meet with Holy Cross.

A Day in the Life

A day exists on campus; one which includes the reality of protest, demonstration, and petition. Protests ranged in form and time.

The peace demonstration focused against Dow Chemical Company developed into a Student Union lobby sit-in, lasting for almost five hours. Another form of protest appeared as a petition signed in support of William Baird, crusader against antiquated birth control and abortion laws.

Headlines were made in still another manner, that of the Presidential poll, using college students as a representative sample of the coming November election.

In Spring
a Young Man's
Fancy Turns to . . .

Despite a Season of Bad Breaks . . .

A baseball team that commits 50 errors in 23 games, that loses perhaps New England's finest pitcher early in the season, and that leaves the starting mound duties mainly in the hands of a junior with limited experience and an untried sophomore, was what second-year coach Dick Bergquist faced as the Redmen tried to defend their Yankee Conference title and as UMass completed its 82nd season of intercollegiate competition.

UMass placed third in the Conference, however, behind Connecticut and Rhode Island with a 6—4 record and finished 12—10—1 overall. Far overshadowing the Redmen's erratic defense was an eye-catching .283 team batting average that produced 146 runs while the opposition batted .225 and scored 109 runs.

Co-captain John Canty, a flame-throwing senior who had posted an 8—2 record with a 1.65 earned run average, and ranked fifth in the country in strike outs in 1967, made only four pitches in his fourth start of the season before leaving with an elbow injury. Although he was later drafted by the Houston Astros, the left-hander was lost to the Redmen for the rest of the spring. The pitching slack was taken up by little Rich Rappoli (3—3) and sophomore John Kitchen (5—2) with relief assistance from senior lefty Dave Katz, who appeared in 11 games. Rappoli suffered from a lack of batting support but had a 2.11 ERA with shutouts over Williams and New Hampshire, and Kitchen posted a 2.16 ERA.

Pacing the UMass onslaught was slugging left fielder Bob Hansen who batted .381, best ever by a sophomore at UMass. Hansen led the nation percentagewise in both home runs with eight, and in runs-batted-in with 30 in 21 games. His homer and RBI totals and his 67 total bases and .798 slugging percentage all represented UMass records.

Following Hansen in the batting attack were junior Tony Chinappi, one of New England's best catchers, with a .347 average and sophomore outfielder Steve Rogers at .329. All-New-England shortstop Joe DiSarcina batted .303, scored 23 runs and won plaudits for his stellar fielding.

Co-captain Don Ferron batted .280, and the second-baseman was presented the ECAC Merit Scholar-Athlete Award, chosen for Phi Beta Kappa and named UMass' top scholar athlete for his 3.5 cumulative average.

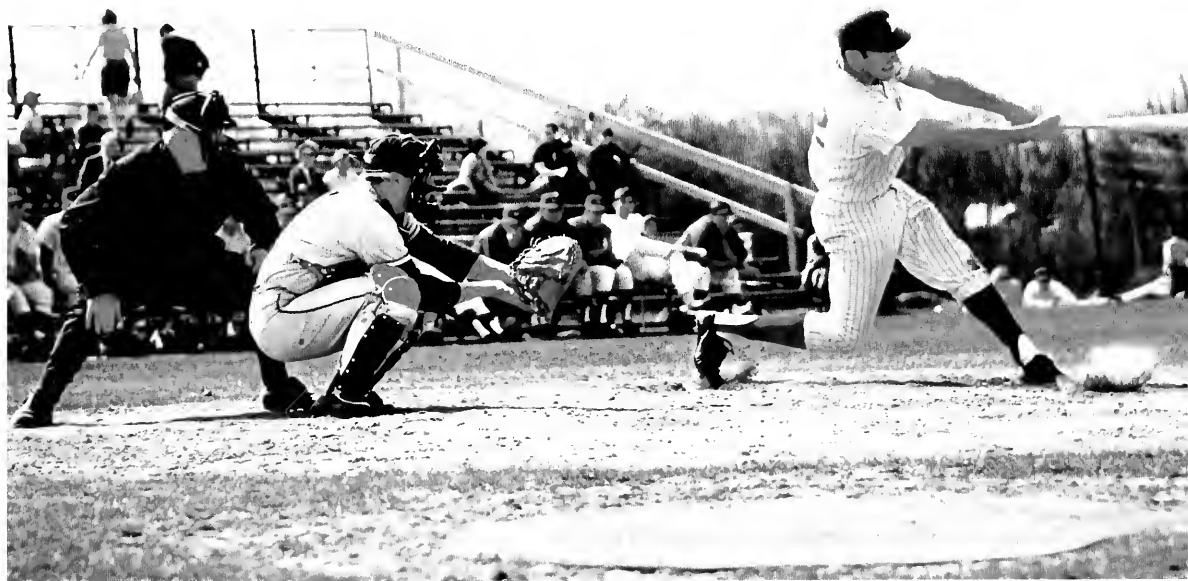

Other standouts for the Redmen were junior Ray Ellerbrook, who batted .275, excelled defensively at first base and led the team in stolen bases with 10; senior outfielders Alex Vyce with a .263 average and Ted Mareno at .260; sophomore third baseman Steve Stanford at .253 and sophomore infielder Chuck Espanet, who batted .304 in a reserve role.

During their annual southern trip during the spring vacation, the Redmen beat Erskine (14—10) and Belmont Abbey (18—6), lost to Erskine (3—2), Randolph-Macon (6—5), and Maryland (9—0), and tied Belmont Abbey (9—9). Beginning the northern schedule, UMass lost to Colgate (4—2), belted A.I.C. (10—2), fell to Dartmouth (9—2), and trounced Williams (10—0), before entering Conference competition.

After jumping out to a 3—0 record in the league with victories over Vermont (6—3 and 5—4) and Connecticut (6—2), UMass lost to Rhode Island (5—4), beat New Hampshire (2—0), lost to Connecticut (2—0), lost to Maine (3—2), and beat Maine (10—7). In the last week of the season, the Redmen shelled Boston College (11—8), bowed to Rhode Island (4—1), trounced Springfield (11—4), ripped New Hampshire (11—3) and lost to Amherst (6—5).

Trackmen Have Record-Smashing Year But Lose Championship

The trackmen failed to retain their hold on the Yankee Conference Outdoor championship, finishing third in the conference meet at Durham, New Hampshire.

UMass was co-captained by Greg Bowman and John Andersen. Andersen holds the Massachusetts outdoor records in the 440 and the 440 intermediates. Bowman competed with the relay teams that set the Redman outdoor one- and four- mile records and the sprint-medley record.

Coach Ken O'Brien's team featured a strong nucleus of juniors with Paul Hoss and Marc Galinas in the two-mile event. Miler Charlie Lang was lost for the season due to illness. Bob Hasslebaum and Diego Gonzalez teamed to run the quarter-mile with Andersen. The varsity runners established six school records and one conference record in the spring. In addition to Andersen and Bowman, Steve Burrell, who competed in the 100 and 220, also graduated.

The freshman team set nine frosh records, signalling a bright future for the 1969 team, hopefully the first UMass track team to have its own track since 1964.

Their talents displayed for an enthusiastic audience, the Association performed in concert Saturday evening.

Garber's Guerrillas Crush . . .

... Everything in Sight

In a sport that combines the scenery of soccer, the stick-handling of hockey, the strategy of basketball, the contact of football, and the strain of cross country, a golden era continued. The lacrosse team emerged from the mayhem of body blocks and broken sticks with a 10—1 record, the best percentage in the 14-year guidance of Coach Dick Garber. Offensive records fell as swiftly as each UMass fastbreak, but the telling quality of the Redmen's play was game-by-game teamwork, a necessity since the days of the original Redmen, who invented the game.

Leading the onslaught of 145 goals, breaking the UMass record of 107 set in 1967, was junior attackman Kevin O'Connor, who gained Little All-America honors for scoring 28 goals and 31 assists for 59 points. The assist and point totals were new season records and gave the "Fox" two UMass career records of 41 assists and 94 points. O'Connor's statistical exploits did not cloud the success of his mates, led by junior Gary Vassar (20 goals, 14 assists), senior Marty Kalikow (19—3), junior Steve Connolly (15—5), co-captain Bill Sinclair (15—1), and junior Brad Herling (5—10).

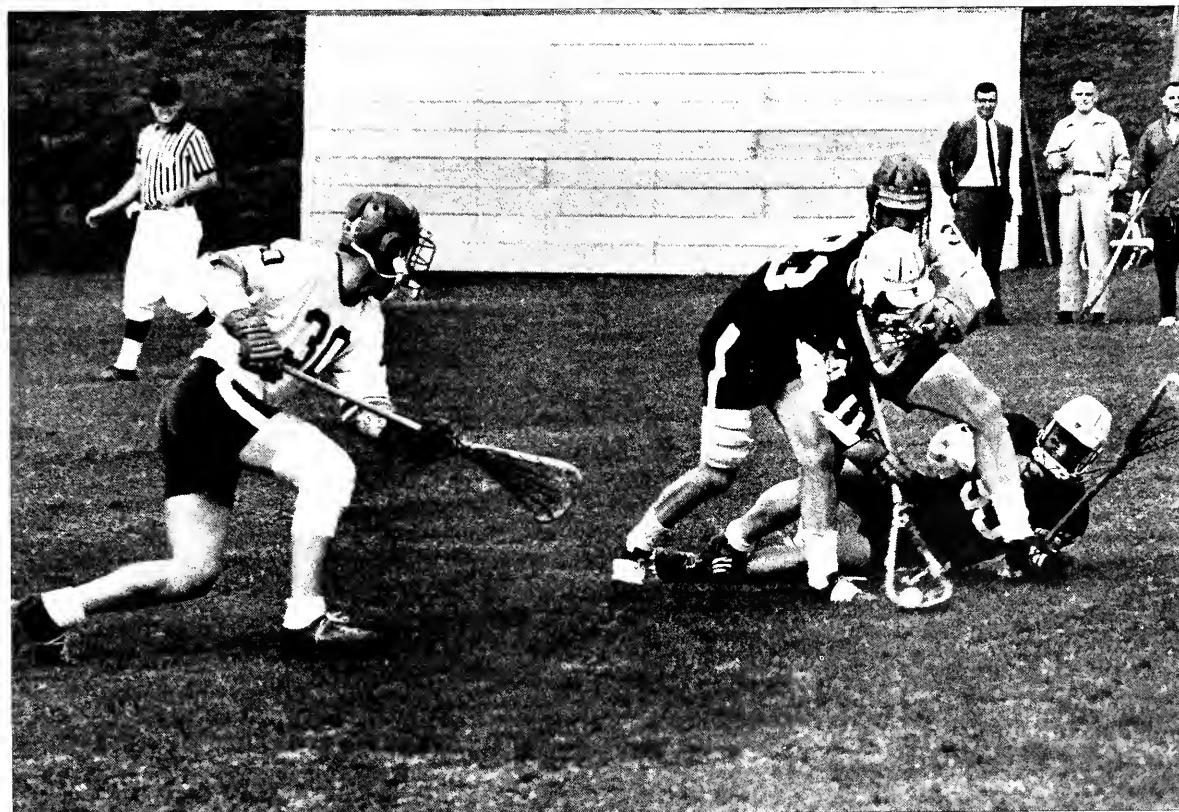

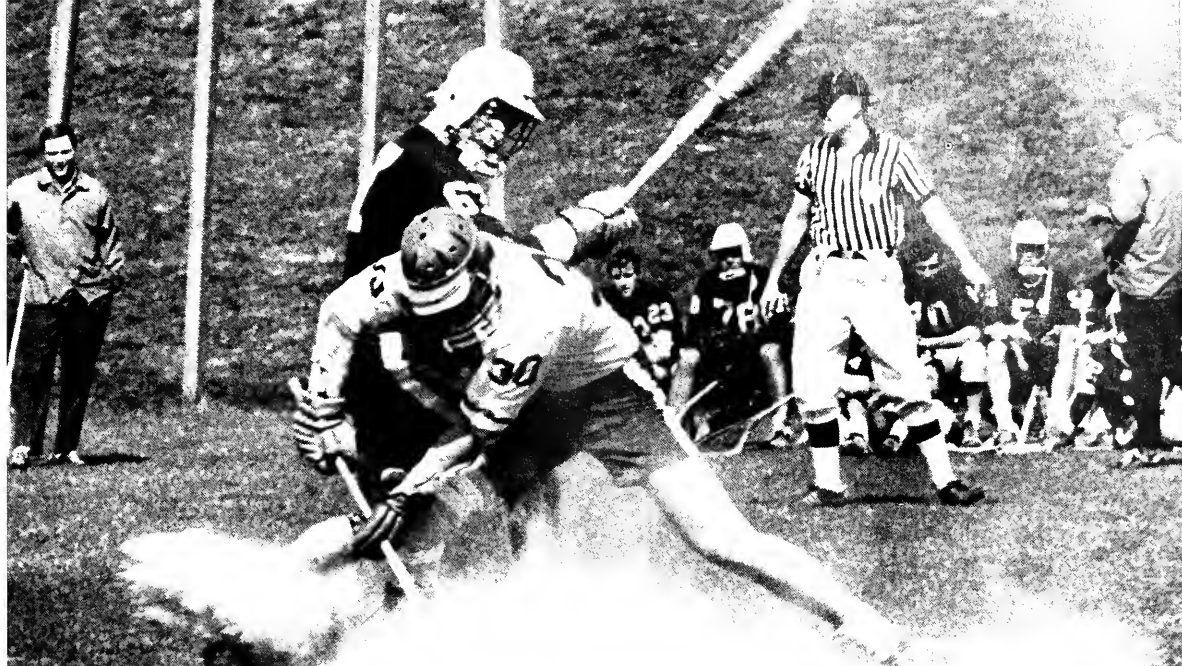

A rigid defense that allowed only 4.5 goals each game while the offense scored 13.2 was inspired by junior goalie Mark Schlossberg, who executed 140 saves, and co-captain Walt Alessi, one of New England's best defensemen.

The season was tarnished at its exact mid-point when a goal with a minute left cost a game to Amherst in New England's showdown feature of the year. Before the loss, the Redmen had charged through Wesleyan (14—7), Middlebury (13—7), Tufts (13—2), Holy Cross (20—3), and Dartmouth (10—4). After Amherst, they conquered Connecticut (7—5), Trinity (15—5), New Hampshire (18—4), M.I.T. (11—4), and W.P.I. (19—3).

The scoring totals against Holy Cross, New Hampshire, and W.P.I. all surpassed the previous UMass game high.

Lacrosse buffs with eyes on the 1969 season pointed happily to the best freshman team in UMass history, finishing 7—1 after outscoring its foes, 81—13.

Returning for a second performance this year, the Happenings were acclaimed by all for their talented and humorous presentations in the H.E.R. Weekend concert.

"The only loser in

Intramurals, a personal mode of athletic expression, was developed into a competitive system by Chet Gladchuk, former assistant director of athletics in the School of Physical Education. His untimely death has deprived intramural participants of an avidly interested organizer, yet spirited athletes perpetuate his memory campus wide.

Intramurals Is the Non-participant."

Linksmen Turn in Excellent Card

After losing five top-notch players to graduation, including Jim McDonald, perhaps the best UMass player in a decade, the golf team was expected to brood in a quandary of hooks, slices, and double bogeys. But the Redmen, under second-year coach

Dick Page, duplicated their second-place finish of 1967 in the Yankee Conference meet and finished with a commendable record of seven victories in 14 tries during the regular season.

Led by Captain Bob Nowak and junior Eric Lekberg, the golfers bested Wesleyan, Vermont, Dartmouth, Maine, Holy Cross, A.I.C., and Amherst in regular play, losing to Springfield, New Hampshire, Boston College, Rhode Island, Connecticut, W.P.I., and M.I.T. Nowak recorded the best overall record for UMass, and Lekberg took co-medalist honors, with a 77—78—15 card, in the Conference meet at Maine.

The team championship was won by Rhode Island, who also captured the New England meet at New Hampshire.

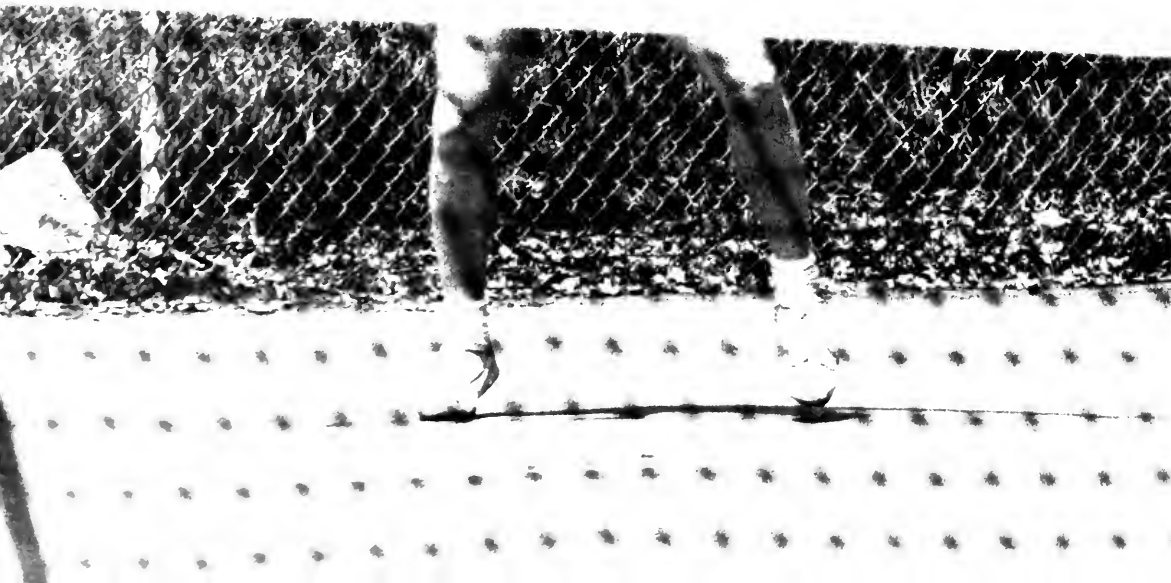

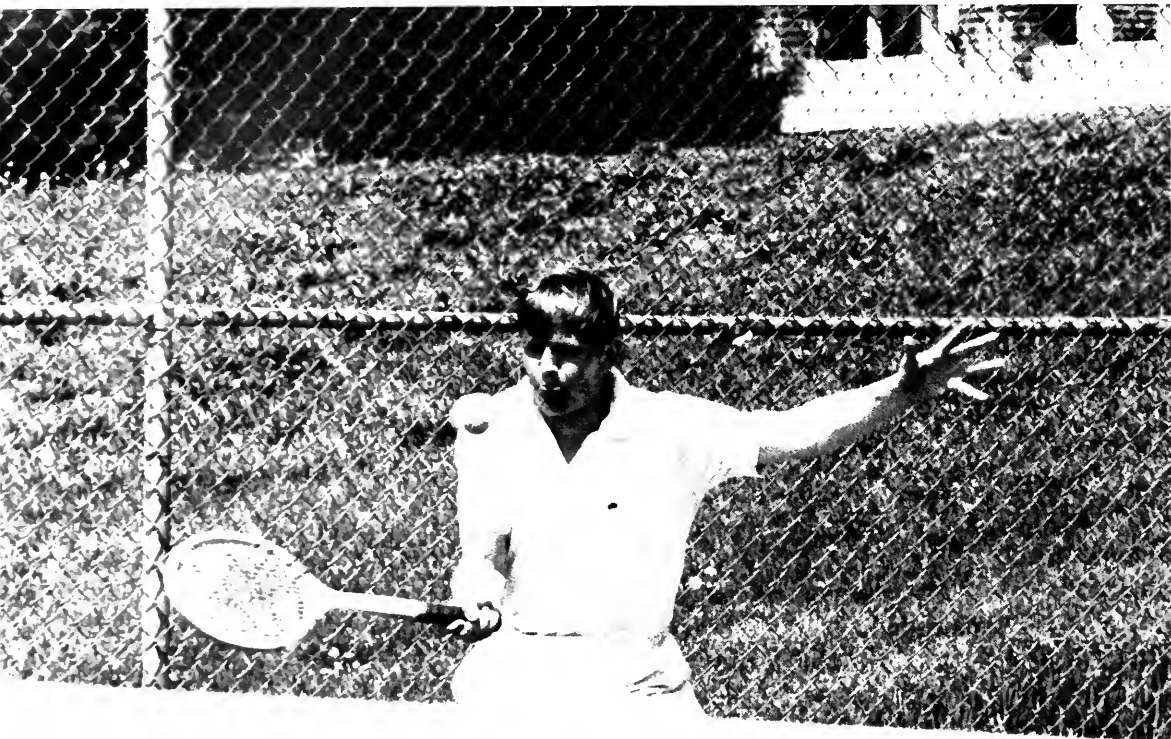

Senior Gary Gasperack, juniors John Ariansen and Paul Johnson, and sophomores Dick Barber and Dick Starsiak performed ably for the Redmen, who stood 4—1 on their home grounds, the Mt. Holyoke College Golf Course in South Hadley. With Captain Nowak and Gasperack, who earned a varsity letter in his third sport, as the only seniors, the prospectus for the 1969 linksmen is promising.

... with Their Consistent Play

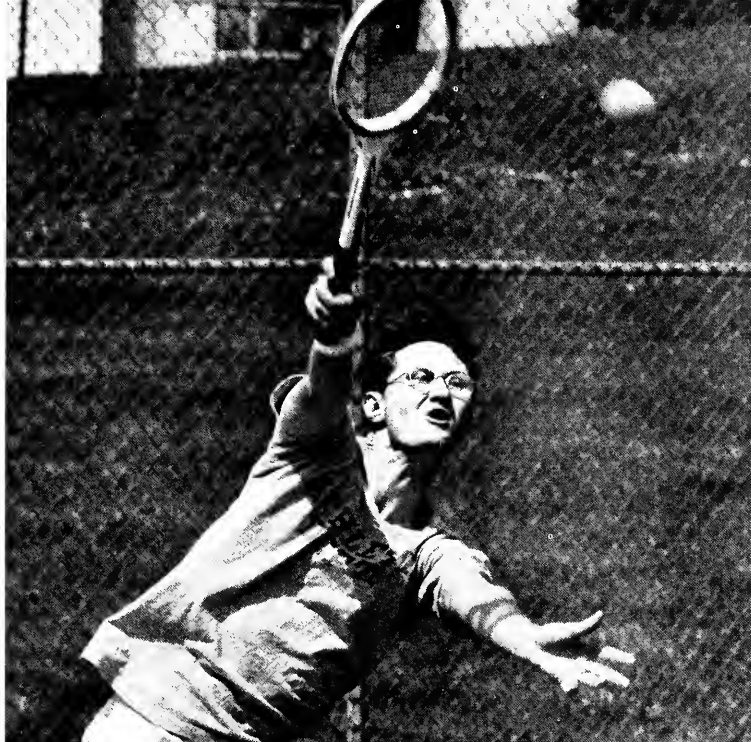

Steve Kosakowski completed two decades as UMass tennis coach, and the Redmen celebrated his 20th anniversary by giving him his ninth Yankee Conference title, the title that the rain deprived him of in 1967. The team's 7—3 showing in the regular season made Kosakowski's career record an enviable 129—53. Since 1953 his teams have not finished lower than second in Conference play.

The Redmen won the Conference meet by one point over Rhode Island on the strength of individual titles won by senior Steve Cohen and juniors Tom Johnson and Glen Sheppard as well as a doubles title won by Sheppard and senior Allen Davis. Cohen and Johnson were the top performers during the season as the Redmen white-washed Fairfield and Tufts, 9—0; routed W.P.I., A.I.C., and Springfield, 8—1; and edged New Hampshire and Rhode Island, 5—4. The losses were to M.I.T., 7—2; Holy Cross, 5—4; and Connecticut, 5—3.

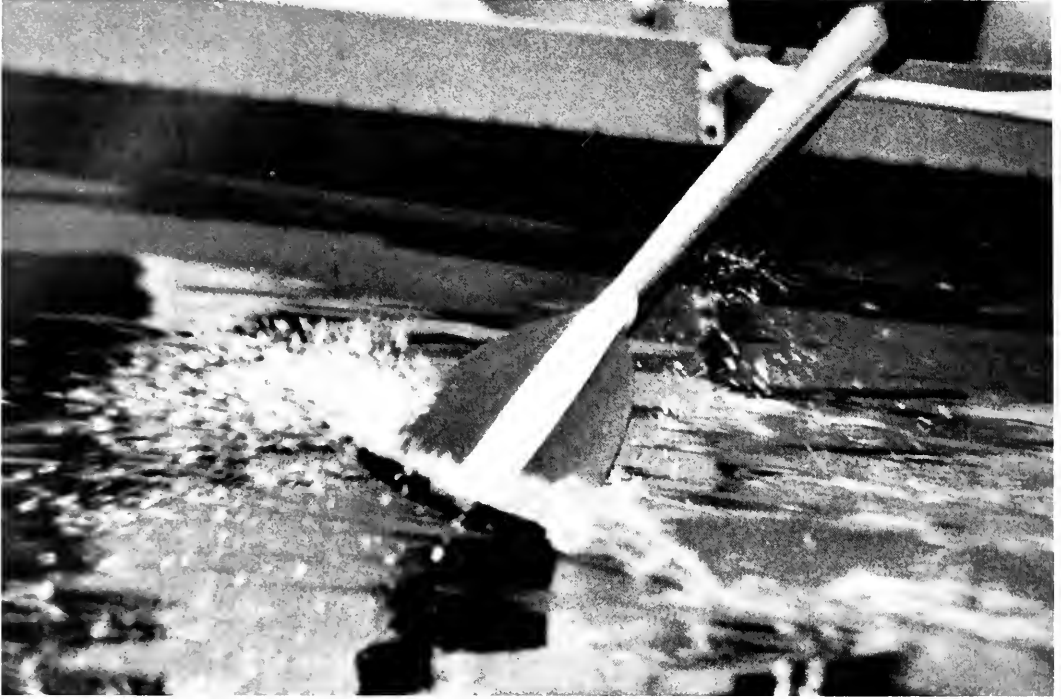

Junior Carl Clem and sophomore Mike Katz also excelled for the Redmen throughout the spring.

Besides the Sheppard-Davis combination, the Clem-Johnson and Katz-Cohen teams were consistent threats in doubles play.

Crew Club Continues . . .

Experience was the key word as the Crew Club completed its third and most successful season to date this past spring. It was a season marked by impressive finishes as the varsity crew, coached by Dave Clarke, sprinted past Holy Cross College by a 2.6 second win, and Worcester Poly Tech by 2 seconds.

The varsity, captained by Roger O'Donnell, finished the season with a 3—2 record. At the Dad Vail Regatta, the small college national championship held in Philadelphia, the team finished 10th against 32 other shells.

The junior varsity was besieged by hard luck through the season. It lost the first race of the season when Amherst reversed its varsity and junior varsity teams before the race. At the Harborow Regatta in Middletown, Connecticut, the Jayvees were defeated by Wesleyan after the referee ordered them to change course.

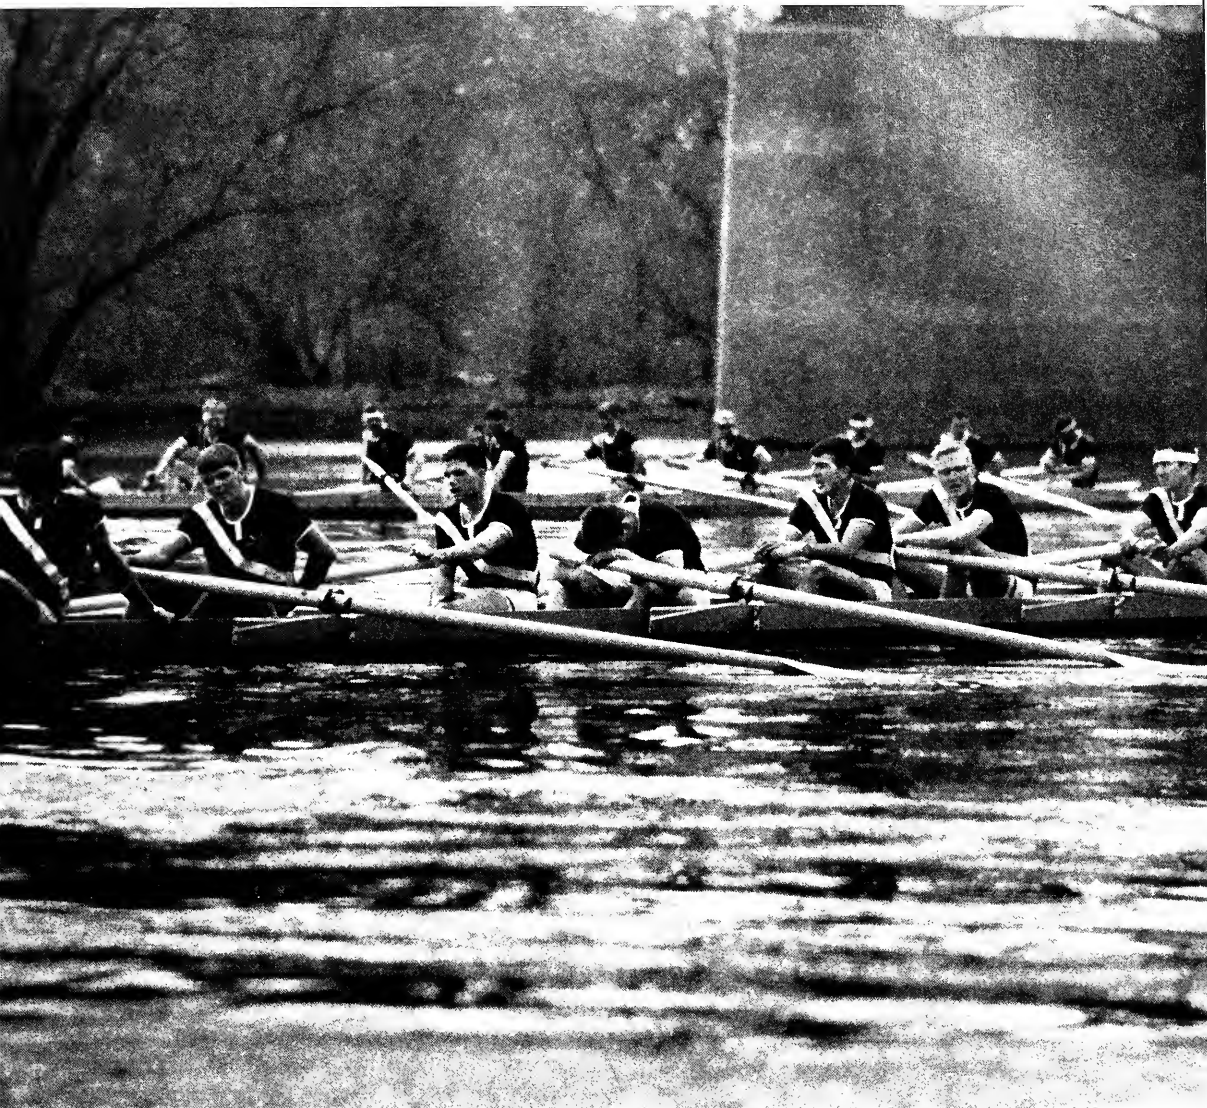

Junior Mike Faherty coached the freshmen to a 4—1 record. The only loss was at the Kerr Cup Regatta in Philadelphia, but all the wins were by impressive margins. At the Vail, the frosh boat came in seventh of 14 boats.

During the '68-'69 season, the coaching chores will be handled by Faherty since Clarke graduated. That crew should be more successful than last season's on the strength of at least 17 returning rowers.

Army and Air Force R.O.T.C. presented the 40th Annual Military Ball in the Student Union Ballroom on May 11. Over 300 cadets, officers, and their ladies, enjoyed dancing to the many varied beats of the 8th Air Force Dance Band from Westover Air Force Base. During a break in the band's performance, the vivacious Musigals delighted the audience with a variety of unusually arranged songs. Barbara Kopiecki was saluted by the officers as the 1968 Military Ball Queen.

Campus Chest Is an Overwhelming Success

Through a number of fund-raising affairs, such as the annual Ugly Man on Campus contest, a Student Union dance, a donkey basketball game between faculty and students, and a Mr. Campus Chest contest, the sophomore class raised over $1000 to be donated to various charities during its Campus Chest Week.

Greek Week: a Time for Togas and Chariots

Sponsored by the fraternities and sororities on campus, Greek Week is a time for both Greeks and Independents to unite in friendship and fun. With the crowning of the queen, the week officially begins. Activities such as the sing competition, the Hatfield Barn Banquet, Opel painting, and the chariot parade and races, filled this 1968 Greek Week with an enthusiastic spirit long to be remembered by all who participated.

R.S.O.: Hub of Extra-Curricular Activities

The Student Activities Office in the Student Union is the headquarters for Recognized Student Organizations (R.S.O.) and the Program Office. It provides a banking, booking and auditing service for student organizations, as well as resources and counsel on program planning, budgeting, purchasing, contracting, and most other aspects of the affairs of student organizations. Advisors are available to work closely with students and faculty advisors of student organizations to help them attain their goals.

R.S.O. is a profitable means of fostering maturity and general enrichment in those students who wish to take optimum advantage of all that the University can offer.

Katie Shea, R.S.O. Secretary, is always helpful checking bids, honoring checks, and issuing purchase orders for students.

S.U.G. Board: Voice of the Student Union

The Student Union Governing Board (SUG Board), composed of students, faculty, alumni and staff, is the official body which determines how the Student Union is to be used by on- and off-campus groups. The SUG Board considers matters ranging from the price of haircuts to the planning of the new Campus Center. Issues of the past academic year involved the sale of Mother of Voices, military recruitment and picketing in the Student Union. The SUG Board is primarily interested in relations between the students and the Student Union, for the building is owned by the students.

Student Senate Gives Undergraduates Real Voice in Policy Decisions

Striving for student power and recognition of student rights in University decision making shaped the direction of the Student Senate's activities and policies this year.

The Senate successfully climaxed two years work on open houses which included a threat of a campus wide "walk-in". The Trustees accepted virtually all of its recommendations.

One of the Senate's yearly functions is the allocation of student funds, which are derived from an activities tax which it levies.

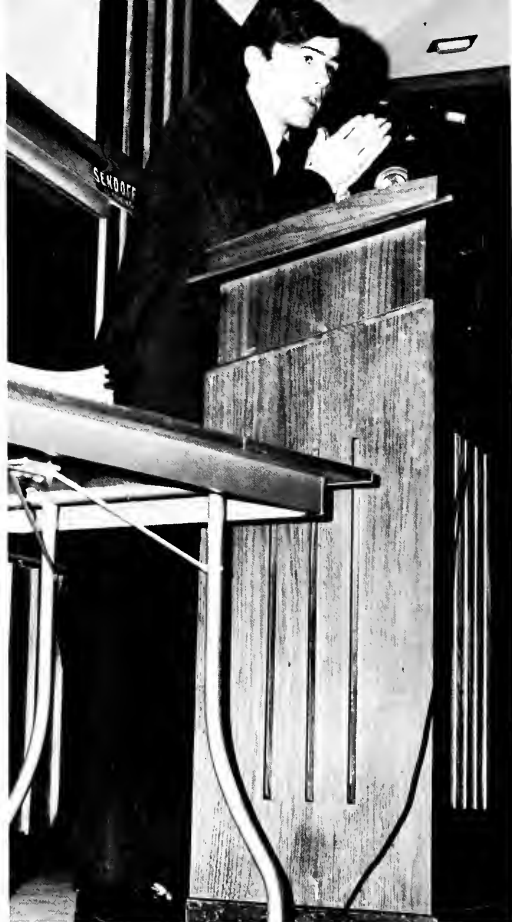

Controversial items included the largest Collegian and Index budgets in Senate history.

$41,000 was appropriated to help bring underprivileged students to the University.

The Senate accepted the '67-68 Alcoholic Beverages Committee Report. This would place no University sanction against drinking in student rooms, and would allow the purchase of a beer and wine license for a "21 room" in the new Campus Center.

The Senate continued its study of curriculum reform and grading policy, and initiated work on a University Ombudsman. It also set procedures for student judiciaries, residence halls, and other student organizations.

The Administration proposed a room rent increase without consulting student representatives. The Senate quickly presented an alternate proposal which the Trustees accepted. This precedent has helped insure a powerful student voice in future University decisions.

Jim Collins, President, and Fran Boranski, Vice-President, funneled the direction of Student Senate policy.

Jimmy Fund Drive Highlights the Year for WMUA

WMUA culminated another fine year of radio entertainment with a week long marathon for the Jimmy Fund. A highlight of the week was Ed Jewett's battle against sleepiness in his effort to break the world's record for hours awake on the air. A raffle for prizes donated by local merchants brought the total over the $1000 goal. Participation in the Campus Chest Drive reflects the wide and varied role played by this non-commercial, educational, and student-operated activity.

AP Wire Service and Controversial Issues Featured as Collegian Goes Daily

Facilitated by daily publication and AP Wire Service, the Massachusetts Collegian continually kept abreast of controversial campus, national, and international happenings.

Attacked by some for its partisan views, the Massachusetts Collegian, with the largest staff of photographers and reporters in its history, nevertheless exploded the Senior Week controversy, and probed into the open housing issues and the student protest for academic freedom.

On the lighter side, the newspaper introduced the popular cartoon, "Peanuts", and the crossword puzzle as scholastic diversions.

Ron LaBrecque, News Editor, continually evaluated and re-evaluated every news story printed.

It's not a bad place, this Index office. It's sort of confusing at first, with all the talk about F-stops, picas, and blocked white space. But you get used to Neil's bare feet and everything being "out of sight". And the conversation begins to mean something after a while . . .

"Who ate the scale-o-graphs? Is this the Collegian office? How 'bout a quick game of cards? How long are you gonna be at the light table? What this place needs is a bed. Has anybody seen Joe? Another camera busted? When are my prints coming in? Let's pattern our book after Alabama A&M. Is it 11 characters to two inches or one? What's 10 divided by 4? I wonder if we could get two more complimentary tickets. What does April 10th mean? White gloves? You're kidding. How about 'psychedelic sound'? Hiya, 'C.L.' Another editors' meeting? Who's going down to the Hatch? What we need is an electric typewriter. Who's got a key to the file cabinet? Who spelled 'senieors' like that? Hi, Flash. How about another trip to Chicago? Kappa, Kappa, Kappa Gamma. I'm so happy . . . Need a date, Chink? A 4:40 class on Friday? Who's the stud with all the office hours? Hey, Stache. Who's got a thesaurus? Don't worry about it. It'll get done."

And somehow it did.

It was an experience. You learn to accept typewriter-cramped fingers, out of focus pictures, and the Chief. But most importantly, you learn something about photo-journalism and about other people, people united in one purpose—to give the campus 416 pages of nostalgia, a year's history of the University of Massachusetts.

Changing Face of Campus Publications Reflects Diversified Student Demands.

The expansion of the University included the proliferation in the size and quantity of campus publications. Those like the Orchard Hill Hobbitt and the Central Voice have emerged to cover events stimulated by the emphasis on more and better "community" projects. The Spectrum has progressed from a book of regulations to an outlet for general journalism. Although the values of the Engineering Journal and the Mother of Voices have been subject to controversy, the year's most bitter struggle raged for the re-instatement of our famed humor magazine—NOW with funds, NOW without a name.

Symphony Band Expands its Program

The 72-member Symphony Band presented its seventeenth annual concert tour in the state during Spring vacation this year and traveled to seven locations for twelve concerts within five days. A program of martial, classical, and light classical music was presented. Mr. Walter Chestnut, instructor of music at UMass and first trumpet with the Springfield Symphony Orchestra, honored the Band by accompanying them as a soloist this year.

In addition to the Spring tour, the Band performed two concerts on campus and at the Commencement ceremonies. This varied schedule, under the direction of Dr. John A. Jenkins and Mr. Larry Weed, and the chance to travel provided profitable experiences for the musicians.

The UMass Choral, a 54-voice, acappella choir under the direction of Dr. Richard duBois, travelled to New Jersey, Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania for an extensive tour this year. The repertoire consisted of sacred and secular music from the Renaissance to the present, including religious classics, negro spiritual, Folk tunes and Sea chanteys. Concerts were also sung for Massachusetts' audiences through local concerts and a television broadcast in December.

This year's Men's Chorale did a notable production of Shenandoah in its repertoire.

The 16-voice Madrigal Singers sang in the bi-annual choral concert as well as at local high schools.

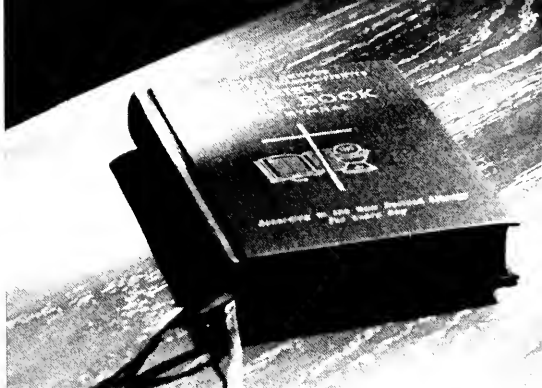

The Women's Choir made trips to Williamsburg and to Chicopee to supplement their campus concerts..

S.W.A.P.: Another Productive Session

S.W.A.P., the Student Workshop on Activities Problems, is a conference made up of representatives from every class, honor society, department, and organization to criticize, discuss, and offer solutions to University problems and affairs. This year's conference met at the Andirons Inn, in West Dover, Vermont, on October 27, 28, and 29. Al Davis was student chairman and keynote speaker was Provost Oswald Tippo who spoke about student responsibility for University growth and expansion. This informal gathering of students, faculty, and staff was very productive, especially in the area of Academic Affairs, where the curriculum for the College of Arts and Sciences was discussed for possible changes.

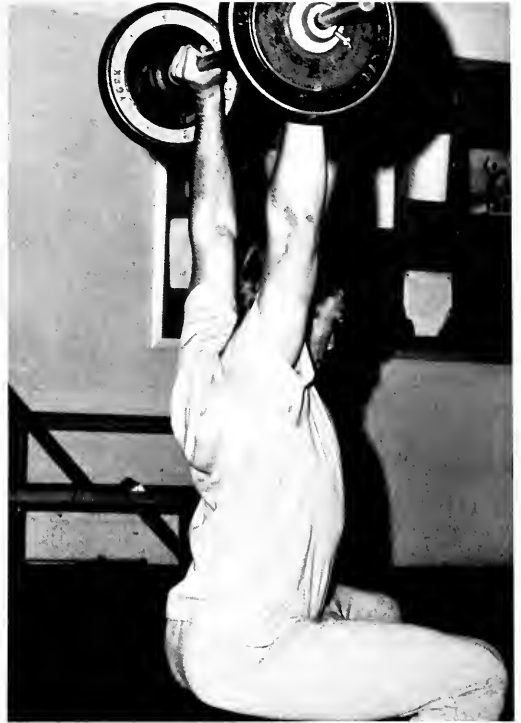

Musigals and Statesmen: Vocalized Entertainment

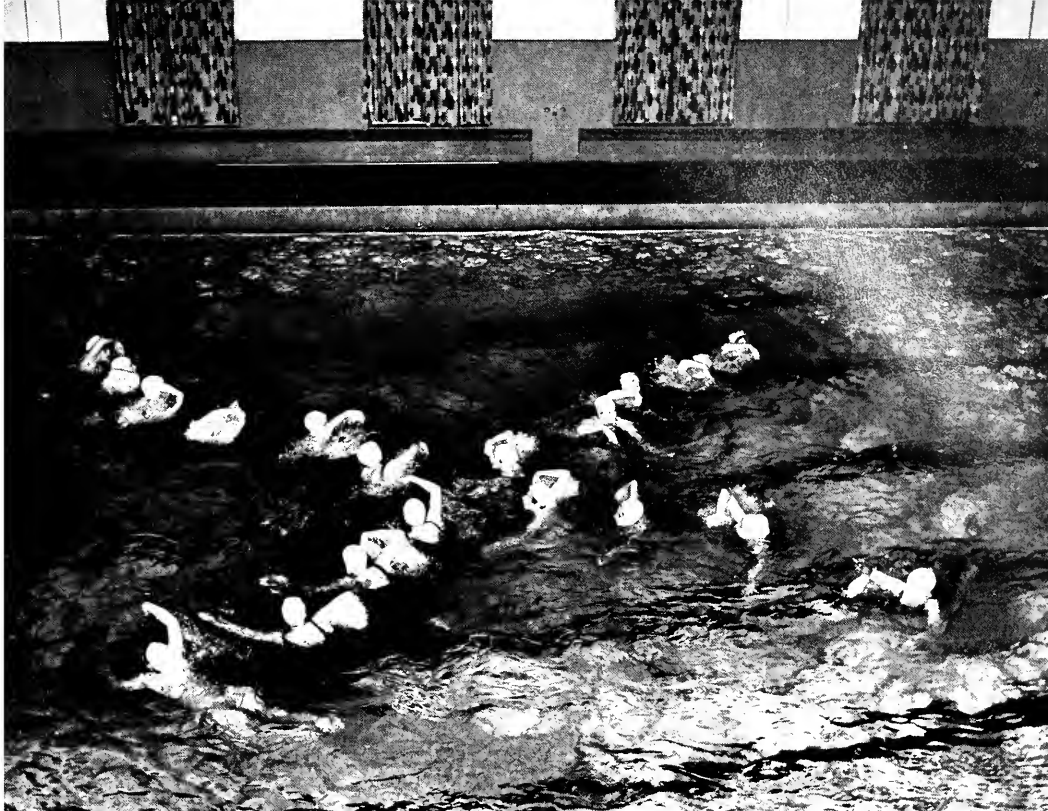

Sports Clubs: Another Dimension to Athletics

Apart from the regular varsity and intramural sports, sports clubs such as weightlifting, judo, skiing, rugby, and crew offer the individual the opportunity to pursue an athletic goal in his own manner and to experience the enjoyment, excitement, and fulfillment of this pursuit.

Some of the highlights of this part were the truly successful season submitted by the Crew Club and the organization of the new Rugby Club.

Military Groups Uphold Traditions in Turbulent Times

Angel Flight, Colonel's Cadre, the Flying Redmen, Scabbard and Blade, and the Precisionettes are an extension of the activities offered by R.O.T.C. and through which military values and traditions are maintained.

Whether it be the Precisionettes and Flying Redmen competing in drill team competitions, the booming of a cannon to signify a Redmen touchdown, or a charity drive by Angel Flight, these groups continue to preserve the military traditions established on campus in 1863.

Newly-formed Patriots were instrumental in promoting spirit in the Southwest Complex.

Changing Campus Cherishes Traditional Spirit

Amid a changing campus exterior, the spirit that is the University remains untouched. It is a force which originates in the student himself. It is a force most clearly understood at football games when the crowd roars, at concerts when there is standing room only and thundering applause, at residential college weekends when there are students at every window and bands and picnics. It is spirit groups—the Revelers, the Patriots, the Cheerleaders—that encourage this force to be unleashed.

New Projects Undertaken by Gamma Sigma Sigma

Gamma Sigma Sigma added new dimensions to its roster of service projects this year. The sisters devoted over five hundred hours to clerical work for the Hampshire County Public Health Department, and took charge of the University Box Office. Work with the mentally retarded at Belchertown State School was Gamma Sigma Sigma's local expression of a national goal.

Gamma Sigma Sigma's theme of sisterhood and friendship is reflected in their service, but more personally in pledge breakfasts, sundae parties, and suppers.

Alpha Phi Omega Sponsors Las Vegas Night for Charity

Alpha Phi Omega, in an effort to raise funds for charity, simulated a Las Vegas gambling casino which successfully authenticated the excitement and the adventure of "the real thing". Members of this service fraternity extended their efforts to ushering at the University Theater performances, setting up student elections, and organizing the University Blood Drive.

As brother united in the desire to serve the community as well as the University, Alpha Phi Omega sponsored Christmas parties for orphaned children and assisted in preparations for the Amherst Community Fair.

Volunteers Cheer the Mentally Retarded

Sacrificing time and energy to bring happiness into the lives of mentally retarded children at Belchertown State School is the ultimate goal of generous University students who devote their Saturdays to organizing games and creative activities for the children. At Christmas time, the Belchertown Volunteers rejuvenated the fantasy of Santa Claus as they collected toys and distributed packages at the school.

The experience of working with the retarded is rewarding not only through the concept of giving, but through the realization of the meaning of ourselves.

Men's and Women's Judiciaries Combine to Form General Court

In an effort to unify high level decisions, the Men's and Women's Judiciaries combined this year to form the General Court. Composed of seven men and five women, the Court is the highest student court on campus, hearing cases appealed at lower levels as well as cases of alleged misconduct that do not occur specifically at the residence hall level. Notably absent this year in the agenda of cases were curfew violations, while there was a sharp increase in cases involving alleged misuse of organizational funds.

Thrives*

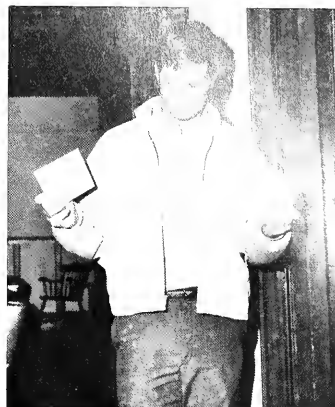

Where will I turn? I want to know myself and I want others to know me. A house with Greek letters opens its doors. I walk in; I meet those others; I want to stay. This is where it begins—Greek rush and the temporary ending is the bid from the house I choose.

But it is really a beginning—a newness of thoughts. With this in mind, I become caught up in the excitement of a different life.

I learn to appreciate loyalty, tolerance, individuality and togetherness. I grow as I see myself through the eyes of others; and others learn from me. The world beyond those doors seems less frightening now. All too soon I must turn again. This time I know where I am going, because the world I am leaving has given me self-assurance to find my way.

Not everyone defines words in the same way. You have to understand what words mean in the context of a fraternity apart from any other organization.

Fraternity as usually defined means, "a body of men associated for their common interest or pleasure; a brotherhood".

To Alpha Epsilon Pi, the word has a deeper meaning. It does not mean conformity. It mean a group where each brother develops his individuality to the utmost.

Our fraternity asks for belief in God. It allows each man to worship in his own way, remembering that the essence of fraternity lies in the Creator's ideals.

Alpha Sig is the difference. The difference—between a handshake at Round Robins and one after Hell night, between puppy love and new lodges for Craig, Brian, Dan and Dwight, between an N.C.C. exchange and a Kappa football game.

And in the middle lie the simple things; fine movies at Pledge Chapel, a cabbie's hat for Murph and a championship bowling team.

There are mistakes too—like forgetting “Barsey’s” before the “Q”, being afraid of last semester’s Hell Night or expecting the Treasurer to snap.

Also more complex feelings—a missing Koala and Buzzard, a prayer for Butch and a teenage house mother.

It is the difference which is the house. We are as different as Big Dan and Steed, yet as similar as Marky and Jacky. A spectrum of men, a spectrum of change, a spectrum of memories.

Since its founding in 1885, Alpha Chi has been known for its frinedliness and enthusiasm, a spirit which prevails from "Deep Sea" rush parties to graduation festivities in June. Sorority life centers around the house, with Monday night active meetings, relaxed Sunday morning breakfasts, and music and dance sessions after class. The house bustles with excitement during rush, as the Alpha Chi's warmly greet their new pledges. There are quiet moments too . . . the memorable Alpha Chi fireside with many inspirational comments by the sisters. And there is Faculty Tea, when the girls put on their best manners and gather for an evening of informal talk with their favorite profs. Or there is Dad's Weekend, when they escort their fathers to a game and "treat" them to dinner. Many girls also take part in service activities, from tutoring underprivileged children in Springfield to the annual Christmas Party with a local orphanage. With a spirit of diversity in fun, leadership, and service, the Alpha Chi's look back on another year of cooperation among individuals and forward to future cooperation in carrying out the ideals of the sorority.

From the main plant: By working together on summer weekends, we gave the house a fresh painting. C-house also took on a luster inside that made it hardly recognizable from previous years. New furniture and other renovations took place with alumni aid.

From social: The fall included exchanges, while the weekly senior Hookers Club meetings began again at the Aqua Vita. Homecoming Weekend started off with "Metawampee's Marionettes" being a first place float. Two weeks later high up in a large hayloft, saw the annual Farmer's Frolic with people hanging from rafters, climbing ropes, throwing hay, and good times for all.

From sports: A football game with Chi O was close all the way, but the super bowl saw the A and B House Packers nip the C House Patriots 7—6.

From general: Trying to think of original names for the new dog caused the pledges anguish in a memorable front room gathering. And in one of his roles, our late show Dracula caused such a stir that we vowed to finish the year studying while living together in the Beta Phi tradition.

Delta Chi

"The college fraternity accepts its role in the moral and spiritual development of the individual. It not only accepts the standards of the college, but, in addition, endeavors to develop those finer qualities of ethical conduct which add to the inner growth of man."

Seven men believed this idea in April, 1966. They believed it so strongly that they inspired sixteen men to obtain a pledge class of fourteen to obtain a national fraternal name, to create an organization, to spread their influence to many varied parts of the campus and community and to hold their heads up at the sound of Delta Chi. These thirty have now been joined by thirteen more, all as eager to understand our goals and we are eager to help them to understand. Although it be only twenty months old, Delta Chi is growing more and more rapidly both in size and strength. The brotherhood knows where it has been, where it wants to go and, very importantly, believes in its ability to get there. Delta Chi is more than a place to go, more than a place to eat, sleep or study—Delta Chi is a warmth and a belief and a hope.

So why are we here? Does the barnlike architecture of the house demand our presence? Or better still, is it the weekly housemeetings, the house jobs, the smokers, the pledge and initiation ceremonies? No, these are not the reasons why we pledged the old brown barn. The reason becomes increasingly apparent to each brother in his daily fraternal life. It is friendship, Zeta Nu's greatest commodity; good times, inerasable memories, brotherhood, life-long pals. Unfortunately, the fraternal experience is something we cannot adequately communicate to outsiders, but that makes it all the more precious to us.

Theta Chi

Steven Albernaz, President
Thomas Byron, Vice President

Richard Dyer, Secretary
Gerald Bruen, Treasurer

Since its inception at the University of Mass. in 1911, Theta Chi has been endeavoring to fulfill its motto, "Alma Mater First and Theta Chi for Alma Mater." Throughout the years, it has produced many leaders in such campus organizations as Maroon Keys, Arcon, Adelpia, and General Court as well as fielding many outstanding Varsity and intramural athletes.

Outstanding leadership also displays itself in the organization of the house and house activities. Individualism and the fostering of special talents are stressed. Application of these attitudes has placed Theta Chi in a position of prominence. Most important, however, is the tradition of spirit and brotherhood which is present in house life.

Proud of its relations with sororities and other fraternities, Theta Chi will always strive to perpetuate the Greek System.

On a far side of campus, located near the WoPe building, there is a white framehouse. To many of those who pass by, it is simply that—a white framehouse, but to the sisters of Kappa Alpha Theta it is far more. It is the site of a “melting pot”; a meeting place where one can find many different girls united by one common interest, KAPPA ALPHA THETA. The separate and unique contributions of each individual fuse to create very diverse effects. Upon visiting Theta, one may find a “streetwalker” skit, Sunday night movies with Mom and Dad, twenty-one sisters waiting in line for one shower, egg raids and renting barns, and House Parents who are involved with you. Jim and Merlene are people to skate and snack with, but most of all to talk and live with. Girls are dancing, daydreaming, studying, singing, and especially listening to each other. The house gives a permanent, personal atmosphere to a sometimes impersonal campus. It is a part of our growing.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

The year 1967 marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of Delta Nu chapter at the University. The UMass Kappas were recognized for hard work, enthusiasm, and achievement by receiving an award at their province convention last spring.

Civically, the Kappas united with other Greeks in fostering the successful tutoring program for culturally-deprived children in Springfield. Academically, they held weekly faculty guest nights, inviting both faculty and administrators, including President Lederle, to be their guests for dinner. Socially, their calendar was filled with such activities as teas, exchange suppers with fraternities, special events during the Christmas holidays, the annual Pledge Formal weekend, and active participation in Greek Week.

The twenty-five years of Kappa Kappa Gamma's existence at the university have been productive and rewarding for each individual who has given her interest, assumed the responsibility of membership, and experienced the intangibles which are inherent in the concept of "sisterhood."

The seventy-five returning brotherhood of Kappa Sigma welcomed our new housemother, Mrs. Eva Chatel, this fall. Saturday afternoons also brought football thrills with the accomplishments of our many brothers on the team, especially pro-bound brother Greg Landry. At Homecoming, our alumni were pleased to see a complete renovation of the "house", with the addition of new furniture and rugs to our living room and library.

Later in the fall semester, the brotherhood followed intensely the varsity wrestlers and basketball players from Kappa Sig as they performed their respective talents.

The spring brought an active social semester to the house. Our Greek social calendar included such events as the House Formal, Greek Weekend, and the annual House Picnic. However, scholastic achievement is second to no other activity, as Kappa Sigma has consistently been among the top three or four Fraternities in overall cumulative average in the past. At Kappa Sigma, being the best is a tradition.

Brotherhood is not measured by the size of a house, or the trophies on a mantle, or the money which is in the treasury. The material terms of brick, tin, or silver are overshadowed by the personal stature of the individuals who make up a fraternity chapter. Since its founding in 1912, the fraternity brothers of Lambda Chi Alpha, Gamma Zeta chapter, have received and maintained a proud tradition of excellence in scholarship, campus affairs and athletics. The men of Lambda Chi Alpha direct their individual talents in working toward the good of the fraternity and strive to maintain a close bond between the brothers. Our late advisor, Mr. Stephen Gladchuk, portrayed the ideals of our fraternity. He gave us a true philosophy of learning how to live together as brothers which will always remain with the past, present, and future brothers of Lambda Chi Alpha.

Pi Beta Phi, established on this campus in 1930 as Alpha Lambda Mu until nationalized in 1944, has a long and proud tradition to uphold. To Pi Beta Phi goes the proud honor of being the first women's fraternity in the United States. Yet the chapter at the University of Massachusetts does not intend to thrive upon this distinction, but hopes to reaffirm the worth and value of such an organization within the concept of Panhellenism.

It has been so truly said that fraternal feelings go far beyond the social and cultural aspects of the sorority itself. Sisterhood is a feeling that must transcend the mundane aspects of human relationships. Sisterhood, on the highest plane, is a path to development, a realization of the true and good in every individual. Pi Beta Phi is all of this—an institution which presents the true Greek image coupled with dignity and grace.

A new fraternity on campus is growing, thriving, pregnant with promise, yet still only partly realized. Pi Lambda Phi, the 43rd chapter of an outstanding national fraternity, has been at 375 North Pleasant Street only two years. During that time there's been much painting, scraping, hammering, and scrubbing to make a chapter house for the proud, growing brotherhood. There's been living, eating, studying, carousing together, Homecoming, parties, intramurals, Greek committees, "Good Morning, Ma", booking in the basement, twenty transfixed around the tube, a couple of "cold ones" down the Drake, cards all night in Lightning's room, "Great meal, Larry". Through vision, effort, achievement, and reward, we are Pi Lambda Phi, not for four years, but for a lifetime.

Q.T.V.

Q.T.V., the University of Massachusetts's oldest continuing fraternity, looks upon its 99th anniversary with equal amounts of eagerness and retrospect.

In retrospect . . . a fraternity is a continuing story of the men who through their own energies have contributed support to the house in its bleakest and happiest moments, generation after generation. Men like: Richard Peterson, coordinating chairman for UNESCO; William R. Fashe, structural engineer for the Tacoma Narrows wide-span bridge; Sheldon Bosworth, regional director of the Peace Corps' South Pacific area located at Fort Morsby, New Guinea; and more recently, Clyde Lee Maddox, head of the Citizen's Action Committee of Valdosta, Georgia.

Even today, the Q.T.V. brotherhood has continued their tradition of academic and civic leadership: Steven R. Bragdon has been offered a Rhodes scholarship in Hotel and Restaurant Management. Rodney Ferrek recently terminated his work study program as apprentice navigator aboard the Torrey Canyon.

Projecting into the future, we can only aspire to distinguish ourselves as have those in the past, maintaining our tradition of a diverse, yet united brotherhood.

One of the most diversified brotherhoods at U. Mass., Sigma Alpha Mu, has distinguished itself socially, academically, athletically, and fraternally. Earning top academic standing among fraternities for the past four semesters, S.A.M. brothers can be found in honor societies from the freshman Phi Eta Sigma through Honors Colloquiam.

The fraternity holds a variety of social activities.

Hawaiian luaus, psychedelic parties, and sorority exchanges make up our social whirl.

But the primary raison d'être of Sigma Alpha Mu is fraternity. A close, mature concept of brotherhood is fostered both within and outside the confines of the house. The result is an experience truly complementing the educational venture.

Sigma Delta Tau

patriae multae spesuna
one hope of many people the hope of becoming perceptive, giving, knowing people a faith in our humanness
a love—for goodness
a sisterhood—founded, preserved, and enjoyed through friendship

There is a lot happening here simply because every SDT is different. At any given moment one could find sisters playing cards, hunting down our flag, studying, singing, procrastinating, discussing anything from dates to Dylan, or doing whatever one does at Mike's. Of course, mealtime is a happening in itself. Invariably the floor show, in and around the kitchen, draws a large audience. The star, Mrs. S, has six male characters of strong TC origin to back her, however, there is doubt as to whether she needs any back up. Then, just to add to all this, the "dynamic duo" (that's Peter & Debby, our parents) arrive on the scene to restore law and order? All this is going on and still we all feel the tension and suspicion in the air because you never know who will be the next victim of the pledges or what Sabrina is doing right this very minute.

"Sometime in distant years when we are grown
Gray-haired and old, whatever be our lot,
We shall desire to see again the spot
Which, whatsoever we have been or done
Or to what distant lands we may have gone,
Through the years we'll ne'er have been forgot."

We will remember working together, pledges and sisters, to create more than a float or a snow sculpture—a memory of what it means to be a part of Sigma Kappa sisterhood, to live in the big white house.

But now we're more concerned with present things; rush parties, roses from Lambda Chi Alpha on our Founder's Day, Father's Day fun at the Rutgers game, togas and pledge formal, pinning always, "One heart, one way."

And as we leave, memories of the university are fused with the spirit of Sigma Kappa. Important in retrospect are the midnight snacks and Junior-Senior Picnic. Important at the time were exams, tears, secret smiles. All these blend into Sigma Kappa love. Now, Inspiration Week, Graduation, and goodbye.

In the spring of 1963, Tri Sigma became the ninth Greek sorority at the university. Through the leadership of Nancy Frazier, an exchange student from Florida State University, who was a sister of Rho Chapter, the foundations were established. When our Gamma Iota chapter received its charter, we added a New England flavor to Tri Sigma since most of our sister Chapters are in the South and Mid-West. We moved into our homey farmhouse by the Education building and stayed there through 1965. However, the university needed our house. Nevertheless the bonds of sisterhood kept us together and by a stroke of luck we were able to move into Phi Sigma Kappa's house in the fall of 1966. As the spirit of sisterhood increases from year to year, we look forward to a rewarding future when Tri Sigma shall have a new house in Fraternal Park.

In 1912 a chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon, the second largest national fraternity with 188 chapters, was chartered on this campus. Now, over half a century later, we are proud of the many accomplishments that have been, and are continuing to be made.

What is a fraternity? The answer can be given in different ways. Our answer at Sig Ep is that a fraternity is nothing more or less than its brothers. The "good times" cannot be forgotten, but again, the "times" are only as good as the brothers.

Sigma Phi Epsilon is a place where individual opinions are fostered and respected, where outside interests lend the House a broad interest base, and where those seeking true friendship and close-knit living can turn. We have grown and achieved fraternally, academically, and socially over the years at the University.

An old man, going along a highway,
 Came at the evening, cold and gray,
 To a chasm vast and deep and wide;
 The old man crossed in the twilight dim,
 The sullen stream had no fear for him;
 But he turned when safe on the other side
 And built a bridge to span the tide.

"Old man," said a fellow pilgrim near
 "You are wasting your strength with building here;
 Your journey will end with the ending day,
 You never again will pass this way;
 Why build you this bridge at evening tide?"

The builder lifted his old gray head—
 "Good friend, in the path I have come," he said
 "There followeth after me today,
 A youth whose feet must pass this way;
 This chasm that has been naught to me
 To that fair haired youth may a pitfall be;
 He, too, must cross in the twilight dim—
 Good friend, I am building this bridge for him."

And that's TEP; not just Saturday nights' parties or Wednesday's exchanges, not just football out front or going Hatching. TEP is more; it's studying together, it's living and growing together. It's building for the future while living the present.
 It's brotherhood—and it's TEP.

Tau Epsilon Phi

That old familiar house has changed color on the outside but on the inside we are still the same. Studies, athletics and Saturday nights are our trademarks. TKE . . . an experience one can never forget; those fun times, that good food, those cards and darts.

It has been relatively quiet this year. The window bill is at a low, giving us enough money for a new study and encyclopedia set. Next comes a new library.

Aside from the fun we have, each and every Teke has acquired a sense of pride which is found only here at Tau Kappa Epsilon. The brothers here represent a well organized and close bunch of guys who represent one of the two hundred and thirty six chapters found around the country.

Phi Mu Delta

Phi Mu Delta's development stems from the organization, the National Federation of Commons Club, founded in 1899, at Wesleyan University, Middleton, Connecticut. This parent organization was made up of local chapters in various colleges throughout the country. It often shouldered the responsibilities for the major activities of the undergraduate bodies.

The sentiment for stronger and more definite order in the organizational structure lead the delegates of Connecticut, Vermont, New Hampshire, and Union College to vote for the formation of the Greek-letter fraternity, Phi Mu Delta, on March 1, 1918.

The inception of Nu Zeta chapter at the University of Massachusetts took place in 1954. The members of Phi Mu Delta fraternity have established specific goals which have helped the chapter create an atmosphere of scholastic and social companionship. Running the house in a democratic manner is an important educational as well as maturing experience.

In extracurricular activities, brothers of Phi Mu Delta have been presidents of the Student Senate and the Interfraternity Council. In sports Phi Mu Delta fielded the intramural football champions this year.

Phi Mu Delta's closely knit brotherhood will surely continue its tradition of campus leadership, academically, socially, and athletically.

Alpha Mu Chapter of Phi Sigma Delta was founded at this campus in the Spring of 1957. Moving into a new house at 367 No. Pleasant St., the founders worked to improve the brotherhood.

The Fall of 1965 was the beginning of a new era for us. Starting the year with seventeen members, the brotherhood had tripled by the Summer of 1967.

At that time one of our foremost goals had been realized. We were awarded the Phi Sigma Delta President's Cup for Achievement. In the overall fraternity standings, we placed highly in sports and academics and our social functions were immensely successful. But even more important is the fact that Phi Sig is now a unified and cohesive fraternity with its sights set on a bright future in a new house at Fraternity Park.

Phi Sigma Kappa

Five years after the Massachusetts Agricultural College had opened its doors, Phi Sigma Kappa was founded by six aspiring young men.

Founded on the three cardinal principles of Brotherhood, Scholarship, and Character, Phi Sig holds these in as high esteem today as did the Founding Fathers in the days of Mass Aggie.

Phi Sigs have held and always will hold the idea of brotherhood as our goal towards true fraternalism. With a house of less than sixty brothers, Phi Sigs have a close association which is often lacking in larger fraternal groups.

Both on campus and off Phi Sigs have shown the extent to which character has been embodied in them. Our Christmas party for underprivileged children shows the willingness and determination Phi Sigs have in expressing the need that the Greek system be a part of the University campus. Phi Sig remains a leader among fraternities and most important, it offers its men the chance to become leaders in their fields.

Chi Omega

In pleasure or if weary,
With joy or sorrow to share,
I know what 'ere my feeling,
A comfort I can find.

In my sisterhood I discover
A new facet of myself,
A home where I am welcome—
A place I welcome others.

When I require solitude,
I can find retreat—
An encouragement from friends,
Happiness within myself.

Somehow I am larger,
My friendships somehow deeper
A gift has been given to my tomorrow,
A delight to my today.

"Ever together in spirit we'll be,
Omega Chi, you are mine through eternity."

CULMINATION

Editors: Barbara Goldrick
Christine Mandracia

Immersion in the college experience—as a student, as a participant, as a member of a group—perpetrates a potential to assume one's place of relevance in society. The caps and gowns symbolize a materialization of answers to the questions: Who am I? Where am I going? The individual has culminated in a directive sense—he has yet to prove his value.

... as Pre-ceremony Preparations Begin

A stadium traditionally marked with the thunderous cheers of "Go, Redmen!" was transformed by 2320 caps and gowns into the processional dignity of commencement. John W. Gardner, director of the Urban Coalition and former Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, was the principal speaker. Cited as a leader whose inspiration "brought talented men and women to a weary bureaucracy" and as one whose "creative leadership gave America renewed hope for attainment of unmatched heights of excellence in education", Gardner stressed to the graduating class the cruciality of personal involvement in the impending social problems of contemporary America.

President John W. Lederle conferred respective degrees upon the candidates, and with the toss of a spectrum of tassels, a multitude of striving individuals became.

In September, 1967, approximately one-hundred undergraduates of the University of Massachusetts began producing a 416 page book that would serve as a lasting history of the 1967-68 academic year of the University of Massachusetts. Today, nine months later, after thousands of photographs and innumerable typewritten words, that task is completed.

Looking back over those months, I realize that the sacrifices of the staff members were many. To relinquish hours of time that could have been spent studying, sleeping, or Hatching, to either photograph or write copy for a publication that they would not see until September, 1968, could, indeed, have been disheartening at times. To these people, I give my humble thanks. Naturally, as in any organization, there are always a few people who give a little extra of themselves, who devote more time and energy than the average staff member. To Lyne Waldman, Janice Wroblewski, Lowell Fitch, Neil Rennie, Alan Marcus, Frank Bialosiewicz, Carol Megizsky, Marianne Schmoyer, Christine Mandracia, Barbara Goldrick, Tom Fitzgerald, Kathleen Shea, Richard Jacobsohn, Dr. Dario Politella, Mike Dasho and Guy Quartarone of Lincoln Studios, Mrs. Bernard Hoffman of Hoffman Laboratories, and Donald Lendry of the American Yearbook Publishing Company, I am forever grateful for making my job a little easier.

In closing I would like to thank you, the undergraduates of the University, for your every action that produced the very life on campus during the 1967-68 academic year, for without this campus life, there could, in fact, be no history of the University of Massachusetts.
